Atlanta-to-Los Angeles Air Mail Line Is Assured

OPENING OF ROUTE TO AWAIT PLACING OF BEACON LIGHTS

Southern Trans-Continental Mail Route Urged as Nation's Second Most Important.

TRANSPORT SERVICE IS ALSO PLANNED

Preliminary Survey Will Be Made To Select Sites for Beacons and Landing Fields.

Los Angeles, September 23.—(AP)—Postmaster General Walter F. Brown, who is surveying Pacific coast airport facilities, said today that a new air mail line between Los Angeles and Atlanta, Ga., would be established as soon as the department of commerce had completed the installation of aviation beacon lights along the route.

The new service between the cities is assured, the Washington official said, adding that only the installation of the beacons was delaying its opening. A spur air mail line will be operated between Los Angeles and San Diego to connect with the new route.

NEW AIR MAIL LINE URGED FOR MONTHS.

The southern transcontinental air mail route, from New York to Atlanta and thence west to Los Angeles through the southern states, has been urged for several months as the next most important one to be placed in operation. Links in this route already are running, the New York, Atlanta and the Atlanta-Birmingham lines, with feeders from Chicago and Miami connecting at Atlanta and also from Montgomery, New Orleans and the Texas cities connecting at Fort Worth.

Passenger and express transport service along the southern transcontinental line are planned and this sunshine route is destined to become as important as the northern transcontinental route in operation from New York to San Francisco via Chicago.

Postmaster E. K. Large Monday said relative to the new air mail route to connect Atlanta and Los Angeles that a short part of this distance already had beacons.

The department of commerce has charge of this work, he explained, and preliminary surveying is necessary before contracts for the construction of beacons can be let.

The procedure is for pilots of the department to fly over the proposed route, taking it in small sections, and to select tentatively the sites for beacons and emergency landing fields.

The beacons are placed approximately every 10 miles and the emergency fields every 30 miles.

When the preliminary survey is completed, the findings are checked and the contracts let for the work.

The time necessary for the completion of this work between Atlanta and the west coast, Mr. Large explained, will depend entirely on the number of crews which are put to work on the project, it being possible to speed the work by placing different groups work on different parts of the route at the same time.

The only part of the route due west of Atlanta which is equipped with beacons at the present time is that between Atlanta and Birmingham. Air mail from Atlanta to New Orleans now goes by way of Birmingham, but recent dispatches from Washington stated that the government is planning to change this route to go through Montgomery.

The Atlanta-Los Angeles route would go direct through Birmingham, Meridian, Fort Worth and on to the coast.

INDIA LEGISLATURE RAISES MARRIAGE TO FOURTEEN YEARS

It applies to all communities and provides for a prison sentence of one month or 1,000 rupees fine for any person solemnizing the marriage of a girl under 14 years of age or a boy under 18.

Error in Ginnings Adds to Concern Over U. S. Reports

THOROUGH PROBE OF ALL LOBBYING MAY BE ORDERED

Naval Propaganda Quiz Discloses Necessity; Shearer Shown as High-Pressure Salesman.

Washington, September 23.—(AP)—An investigation of all lobbying activities was urged today by Chairman Shortridge, of the naval subcommittee which is inquiring into the activities of William B. Shearer, "naval expert," for shipbuilders at the 1927 Geneva naval conference.

Shortridge interrupted the inquiry today to explain that in view of the numerous requests coming to him for investigation of all sorts of lobbying activities, he thought the senate should authorize such a general investigation, which would be undertaken by another committee. He said either there should be such an investigation, or congress should pass the Cawaway bill for registration of all lobbyists.

Shipbuilders End Testimony. Testimony for the first three days of the Shearer case has revealed that shipbuilders not only employed the "naval expert" at Geneva, but in connection with merchant marine legislation here. While the present inquiry was broadened at the outset to include such activities, the naval subcommittee could not go into lobbying in general, a huge field in which hundreds are employed here by every sort of business.

Shortridge's suggestion came as the subcommittee was drawing to the end of its examination of shipbuilders, which has revealed Shearer as a "super-salesman" who sold to leaders of America's shipping industry some things all testify was of no value to them.

"I guess I was just jaded off my feet," explained Samuel W. Wakeman, vice president of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Company, today.

Shearer laughs. It was he who hired Shearer upon short acquaintance, without investigation, and without the knowledge of the president of the company, Eugene C. Grace, and Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the board.

Wakeman's impression of Shearer, and his confession that he could not explain now why he contributed to a fund of $25,000 to pay the "naval expert" to "observe" the Geneva conference, in the same gained by other shipbuilders who have appeared before the committee, according to their testimony.

The big, impressive-looking man, who has been in the navy for 20 years, sits on the front row and chuckles as the group of big businessmen tell, one after another, how he dazzled them with his talk of navies and world officials.

He listened today as one of his letters to Wakeman was read to the subcommittee. Shearer asked for further expense money and claimed, for himself responsibility for getting the eight-cruiser bill through congress and pointing to the 15-cruiser bill then pending. He contended also he had a contract for $25,000 annually for 10 years.

Hoover's Friend Owner. Senators have expressed amazement at paying Shearer $25,000 for "observing" the Geneva conference, but their continued prying has not shaken the unshakable testimony of shipbuilding officials that it was only as an "observer" that Shearer was hired.

Homers L. Ferguson, president of the American Shipbuilding Association, Dry Dock Company, one of the corporations which hired Shearer, stood upon this classification today when representatives of the other companies have testified.

The Newport News president said his company had paid Shearer $18,000 altogether for various work. He revealed also that his corporation is owned by members of the Huntington family of California, and that the chairman of the board is Henry M. Robinson, Los Angeles banker, close friend of President Hoover, and considered likely for a cabinet place later on. The owners knew nothing of the Shearer employment, Ferguson said.

Mistake of 300,000 Bales in Government Figures Forces Market Down 9 to 16 Points.

New York, September 23.—(Special.)—Admission Monday afternoon of the census bureau that it was responsible for an error of 300,000 bales in the Georgia ginning reports—an error which was instrumental in forcing the market off 9 to 16 points—added to the growing concern of southern farmers over the reliability of government figures and estimates on cotton.

This mistake was even more disturbing to cotton men in that it came coincidentally with, although independent of, the action of several southern congress members, in taking up the question of the cotton crop estimate with the department of agriculture as a result of a growing opinion that the forecast is too high and bids fair to cost growers millions in profits.

The error on the ginnings was unprecedented in market history and caused widespread comment. At 10 o'clock the bureau announced its figures on ginnings to September 16, giving the total as 3,653,058 bales, with Georgia having 727,088. The total was about as had been expected and caused no particular change in trading.

Prices Decline Steadily. Later analysis, however, revealed that Georgia published ginnings were nearly three-quarters of the total estimated crop. This soon gave rise to the belief that government estimates might, after all, be too low, and the resultant nervous liquidation was credited with the steady decline in prices from then until the market closed.

After the close and about four and a half hours after its original announcement, the census bureau corrected its figures, making the total 3,353,058 bales and giving Georgia 627,088 bales, a figure about in keeping with the forecast. It was generally conceded that this amazing error had its effect on Monday's late market decline. A cotton expert in the employ of Hubbard Brothers & Company, in a statement issued before the mistake had been corrected, commented on the matter as follows:

Hubbard Brothers Comment. "A study of the details showed a ginning of 727,000 bales for Georgia and as the government had estimated this only slightly over a million bales the trade became nervous and uneasy as they felt that it is very questionable whether such a large ginning in Georgia does not mean that the government has greatly under-estimated that state. As a result, steady liquidation made its appearance, carrying the market down to the low for the day."

In the meantime, the federal estimate was undergoing criticism in presentation at official hands. Influenced by the opinions of several private analysts, who have called the government estimate of 14,825,000 bales 200,000 to 500,000 too high, southern congress members were taking the matter up with the department of agriculture, father of the forecast.

NEW WAY TO CATCH FOX IS REVEALED BY CITY OFFICER

A new way to catch a fox, with a lasso as a weapon, was revealed at police station Monday night when Patrolman N. E. Pittman and his beagle dog appeared with a gray fox as proof.

Pittman and his dog, so goes the story, left home at 821 Grant street shortly after breakfast for a stroll near a swamp at the end of Grant street.

They were on the way home when the beagle dog flushed the fox, which, in its flight, ran almost within reach of Officer Pittman. The policeman picked up a stone, as soon as he saw the animal, and casting it with good aim, dropped the fox.

Hurrying to the spot and believing the fox dead or unconscious, the policeman was surprised to see his victim rise to his feet and dive into a convenient creek.

For a time it seemed a stalemate between the two. The officer tried a wild west trick. Taking an old fish line from his pocket he fashioned a loop and tossed the line. It fell true, landed around the fox's neck and the officer pulled his prey to the shore.

Pittman said he believes the fox must have escaped from the Grant Park zoo and added that he would take the matter up with the zoo authorities today.

BY ADELAIDE KERR, Associated Press Staff Writer.

Plainville, Conn., September 23.—(AP)—The daughter of the governor of Connecticut became the bride today of the son of a former president from Vermont in a ceremony colored by Indian summer tints and marked by Puritan dignity.

The bride was Florence Trumbull, daughter of Governor John H. Trumbull. The groom was John Coolidge, son of Calvin Coolidge, former governor of Massachusetts and thirtieth president of the United States.

Some of the nation's most prominent persons, among them ex-President Coolidge, and two United States senators, gathered with simple folk of New England in the white frame Congregational church to witness the wedding.

The residents of this little town and surrounding villages turned out by scores along Main street and Farmington street to witness the wedding.

The bride and groom were married by the Rev. Mr. Allen, chief of Merritt's counsel, admitted Monday that since Merritt's plea for executive clemency was turned down by the commission and the governor he had sent to more than 100 leading physicians and surgeons of Fulton county a questionnaire submitting what facts he had learned regarding Merritt and asking if from these facts the physicians considered Merritt an abnormal man.

"Of these questionnaires I received from 90 to 95 answers and in each instance the physician or surgeon said he believed Merritt to be an abnormality," Mr. Allen said.

In preparing the questionnaire, Mr. Allen admitted that he gave a history of Merritt's early life on a farm, his service in the army at Fort Bragg, N. C., a history of his employment at a local automobile plant and went into the charges against him.

"I asked the doctors that, supposing we presumed each and all of these charges to be true, what was their respective opinions. In each instance where I received a reply it was shown to be the belief that Merritt is an abnormal man," Allen said.

Merritt's lawyer declined to say what he hoped to obtain through a reopening of the case before the commission and in that connection said he would rather not discuss the case.

COMMITTEE SEEKS TEACHERS' FUNDS

Special Body Will Try To Borrow Needed $125,000 From Banks of Atlanta.

Salaries of the 1,400 employees of the Atlanta public school system will not be slashed and schools will operate until the Christmas holidays without interruption, it efforts of Mayor I. N. Ragsdale, Councilman Wiley L. Moore, chairman of the finance committee of city council, and B. Graham West, city comptroller, are successful.

Members of the finance committee of city council Monday afternoon asked this special committee to negotiate with members of the Atlanta Clearing House Association in an effort to borrow $125,000 with which to bolster up salary accounts of the board of education and prevent the cuts.

The committee was given power to act to secure the money by December 15. It will be paid out of 1930 revenue, the city being unable to make the advance from its own coffers because of a lack of funds.

Couch Presents Request. Alderman J. Allen Couch, of the fifth ward and chairman of the school committee of city council, presented the formal request for the funds and then presented Dr. McIntosh M. Burns, president of the board of education, Miss Allie Mann, president of the Atlanta Public School Teachers Association, and Steve Nance, president of the Atlanta Federation of Trades.

Mr. Couch declared that the school board has administered the funds entrusted to it by the city in a most economical and judicious manner.

"I feel that the board has done as well or better in administration of its funds than any other department of the city and as well as it was possible to do," Mr. Couch said. "At the present time we are operating on only a skeleton squad in the maintenance department. We have cut at every turn, and unless we get the money we will be forced to cut salaries or close schools before the holidays begin. If we can get assurance that the funds will be forthcoming by December 15, we can keep the schools open."

Promise of Board. "The board of education promised this body when the budget was submitted to it the first of the year that it would operate on whatever amount was allocated to the school department," Mr. Burns said. "We are going to do that. If we have to close the schools earlier, we will do it, but we are going to end the year without a deficit."

Miss Mann declared that the teachers have performed their services in a conscientious and efficient manner and that they felt they should not be forced to bear the burden of a cut.

Mr. Nance pointed out that Atlanta's reputation as a city of stability and as the educational center of the south was at stake and should not be endangered or jeopardized by failure to provide ample funds for payment of school teachers' salaries.

Several other routine papers also were before the committee for its consideration.

125 PEN PRISONERS WILL LEAVE TODAY

First Consignment of 500 Inmates To Be Sent To Leavenworth To Go in Special Train.

Washington, September 23.—(AP)—The first transfer of prisoners to relieve congestion in federal penitentiaries in accordance with President Hoover's program was ordered today by the department of justice with the dispatching of 125 prisoners from the Atlanta disciplinary penitentiary to the army disciplinary barracks at Leavenworth, Kan.

The Leavenworth army barracks were taken over by the federal prison authorities last Saturday, the department announced. The barracks were designated to accommodate federal prisoners after the president investigated congested conditions in the penitentiaries following a riot in the Leavenworth federal prison.

In all, the department said, 500 prisoners would be sent from the Atlanta disciplinary penitentiary to the Leavenworth army barracks and their transfer would be accomplished as fast as arrangements could be made.

At the same time it is planned to transfer prisoners to the barracks from the Leavenworth penitentiary and tomorrow a carload of prisoners will be sent from Washington to the barracks.

Along with the transfer of prisoners it was announced guards would be sent from other parts of the country to the barracks.

The first movement of prisoners from Atlanta penitentiary is scheduled to leave today for Leavenworth. This consignment will total 125 convicts.

SPRING WHITE WAY TO GO ON TONIGHT

New System, Containing 172 Poles, Will Extend From Marietta Street to North Avenue.

Another step in the phenomenal evolution of Spring street from a dirt road to Atlanta's principal thoroughfare will be taken tonight, when the new white way system, extending from Marietta street to North avenue, is turned on and the roadway becomes a ribbon of light.

The system will contain 172 poles and will be the largest single one ever erected in Atlanta, according to members of the electric lights committee of city council.

Vehicular traffic counts made by members of the special traffic commission named several weeks ago by Mayor I. N. Ragsdale to study the problem here, showed that Spring street carries more traffic than any other artery. It was pointed out Monday night by Sam Massell, prominent Atlanta real estate man, who is secretary of the Spring Street Improvement Association, original sponsors of the project.

Many new buildings now are being erected on the street and it is fast becoming a retail trading district.

"We are preparing an extensive improvement program along the street and Hugh Richardson and other large property owners are doing the same thing," Mr. Massell said. "At the present time many projects are being erected along the thoroughfare, and it is destined to be an important retail trade district."

NEW MOVE MADE FOR A. E. MERRITT

Condemned Man's Lawyer To Ask Commission To Reopen Case; Questionnaire Sent Doctors.

The prison commission will be asked to reopen the case of Alvin E. Merritt, condemned attacker, under sentence to die in the electric chair October 4, it was learned Monday.

H. A. Allen, chief of Merritt's counsel, admitted Monday that since Merritt's plea for executive clemency was turned down by the commission and the governor he had sent to more than 100 leading physicians and surgeons of Fulton county a questionnaire submitting what facts he had learned regarding Merritt and asking if from these facts the physicians considered Merritt an abnormal man.

"Of these questionnaires I received from 90 to 95 answers and in each instance the physician or surgeon said he believed Merritt to be an abnormality," Mr. Allen said.

In preparing the questionnaire, Mr. Allen admitted that he gave a history of Merritt's early life on a farm, his service in the army at Fort Bragg, N. C., a history of his employment at a local automobile plant and went into the charges against him.

"I asked the doctors that, supposing we presumed each and all of these charges to be true, what was their respective opinions. In each instance where I received a reply it was shown to be the belief that Merritt is an abnormal man," Allen said.

Merritt's lawyer declined to say what he hoped to obtain through a reopening of the case before the commission and in that connection said he would rather not discuss the case.

MILLER HUGGINS IS NEAR DEATH

Mite Manager of Yankee Ball Club Undergoes Blood Transfusion But Fails To Rally.

New York, September 23.—(AP)—The condition of Miller J. Huggins, veteran manager of the New York Yankees, took so serious a turn today that a blood transfusion was necessary in an effort to check the spread of infection growing out of an attack of influenza and erysipelas.

Dr. Huggins' temperature has increased to 105. This may be due in part to the reaction of the transfusion which sometimes occurs. Then again this increase from 104 may not be due to the reaction. His condition is still critical.

Four Narcotic "Joints" Running Full Blast in Shadow of Capitol, Carolinian Says.

HOWELL PREPARES SURVEY OF TIGERS

Federal Agents, Stung by Charges, Begin Undercover Campaign; Doran Refuses More Men.

Washington, September 23.—(United News.)—Charges that opium dens and other "narcotic joints" were being operated in the shadow of the United States capitol were made by Senator Cole Blease, democrat, South Carolina, today as local and federal authorities were drafting a program for making Washington a model city in prohibition enforcement.

"I am reliably informed that within two squares of Peace monument on Pennsylvania avenue four narcotic joints are being run and it is known to people who are supposed to stop it," Blease charged from the senate floor.

Murder for Silence. Blease said "those interested in shielding opium violators" had become so desperate that upon finding a Chinaman was to testify in a narcotic case, they murdered him.

Senator Heflin, democrat, Alabama, joined the debate and charged police here were "accepting money on the side and winking at blind tigers." Meantime Senator Howell, republican, who demanded that President Hoover exert his executive powers and make the capital a model law-abiding city, was preparing data on liquor law violations for submission to prohibition officials.

Prohibition Commissioner Doran, however, declared enforcement activities here were "in competent hands, fully capable of doing the job," and that he did not intend to increase the force, which includes 28 members of the metropolitan police department.

Secret Investigations. "Of course, if Doran is satisfied, we can not expect conditions to improve," Howell said. "There are parts of the United States where prohibition is effective, but Washington, like most of the big cities, is in a winking state."

Commissioner Dougherty, in charge of local police matters, said he had not discussed the enforcement situation with him, but two commissioner colleagues as yet. It was pointed out, however, that it has been twice recommended that all police officers should be given a dry agent's training. With the liquor and narcotic situation in the foreground, federal agents

Lindy Completes New Line To South American Port; Cuts 14 Days From Trip

Arrival at Paramaribo, Dutch Guiana, Ends Flight of 2,575 Miles Since Friday.

MANY PROTESTS AGAINST HUGHES AS U. S. ATTORNEY

Washington, September 23.—(AP)—The nomination of Wilburn P. Hughes to be district attorney for the southern district of Florida was referred today to a sub-committee by the senate judiciary committee which has received numerous protests against him.

Miami, Fla., September 23.—(AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh arrived at Paramaribo, Dutch Guiana, at 4:20 o'clock this afternoon, adding to his feats the accomplishment of a new air mail line, linking the northeastern coast of South America closer to the United States by 14 days than heretofore.

The new extension of the air mail took the flying colonel from San Juan, Porto Rico, his former southern terminus in the West Indies, over the Leeward and Windward group and down the South American coast for a total of 1,920 air miles. The arrival at Paramaribo completed a 2,575-mile journey since Lindbergh took off here last Friday morning for San Juan to inaugurate the mail.

Lindbergh today flew from Port of Spain, Trinidad, stopping at Georgetown, British Guiana, on a regular scheduled air mail halt. Leaving Port of Spain at 7:15 this morning, the colonel took the giant amphibian plane across the narrow strait to the South American coast, skirting the Orinoco river delta and thence into Georgetown at 11:30 o'clock.

The take-off at Georgetown at 12:45 followed one of the most colorful receptions on this journey. All ships in the harbor were dressed for the occasion and the air was rent with shrill blasts from whistles. In some cases tied down and left blowing. Government officials were in the welcoming party that brought Lindbergh and his party ashore while the work of refueling the plane and unloading the mail went on.

With the colonel and enjoying every feature of the long air cruise since he left, Lindbergh kept a diary of the trip as she rode in the role of one of her famous husband's passengers. For Lindbergh, in flying from Miami, with mail and passengers, assumed the regular job of a commercial air pilot, taking out the West Indian Limited of the Pan-American Airways. He cleared his cargo and passengers' list in all of the countries visited just as the captain of a ship would do.

Finds Heavy Mail.
News of Lindbergh's arrival over the harbor at Paramaribo was relayed to the Pan-American radio base here direct from the plane as it circled into a landing position. The radio operator, however, had to furl his antennae and the official landing time could not be learned.

Most of the messages from the plane today were relayed here through the Pan-American's ground stations in the West Indies. Weather conditions along the South American coast making long distance communication difficult for long distances.

Finding that an exceptionally heavy mail had accumulated at Port of Spain for South American points, Lindbergh eliminated all unnecessary weight, even sending coats ashore. The largest part of the mail increase, however, was between the two British possessions, Trinidad and British Guiana, and at Georgetown the Lindbergh plane was so lightened that it was possible to take aboard Juan T. Trippe, president of the Airways Company, and Mrs. Trippe, who had made the journey in an accompanying plane from San Juan.

Graphic messages of the scenery viewed by the Lindberghs was relayed.

FLORENCE TRUMBULL JOHN COOLIDGE'S BRIDE

ton avenue to catch a glimpse of the wedding party as it was whisked to and from the church.

Former President Coolidge and Mrs. Coolidge arrived at the church shortly before the ceremony began. They had reached the Trumbull home a few minutes before, coming by motor from Northampton, their late arrival being explained by Mr. Coolidge's desire "not to be around too long before the ceremony."

Ex-President Cheered.
As Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge alighted from their car in front of the church the crowd which had gathered at the curb broke through the state troopers' lines and swarmed onto the church yard lawn cheering lustily.

The troopers, proceeding gently to push back a throng which contained so many women who had brought young children to the scene, found cries of "shame on you" as effective a weapon as any but hardly had gotten the swarm cleared again when Governor Trumbull arrived with the bride-to-be.

Again the multitude burst its bounds and there were handclaps and murmurs of applause but the on-lookers retreated good natured as Miss Trumbull and her father entered the church to the last peals of wedding bells rung by A. H. Dresser, 85, who has been the sexton of the church since the middle seventies.

Simple Ceremony.
The simple congregational wedding service and a single ring ceremony made John Coolidge and Florence Trumbull husband and wife. The marriage took place at 4 p. m. in the Congregational church in the presence of only 82 guests, limited to that small number in response to the wishes of the bride and groom.

Two ministers officiated at the nuptials, the wedding vows were read by the Rev. Kenneth Welles, of Albany, former pastor of the Congregational church at Northampton, Mass., where the wedding was held, and the Rev. J. Roy Wilkerson, pastor of the Plainville Congregational church, read the preliminary service, consisting of the vows of the church and the announcement.

As the strains of the bridal chorus from Lohengrin, played on the pipe organ by Professor William Chas. Mond, of Mount Holyoke college, sounded through the yellow flower-decked church, the bride slowly descended the aisle and marched slowly down the left aisle.

First came the four bridal attendants followed by Miss Jean Trumbull, who attended her sister as maid of honor.

Bride Enters.
Then came the bride on the arm of her father, John Coolidge, accompanied by his best man, Stephan Brown, of Northampton, entered the church from the right and awaited the procession at the chancel steps. There he joined his bride and they stepped forward together, as the Rev. Mr. Wilkerson read the preliminary wedding service.

A hush stole over the little church as the Rev. Mr. Welles began the actual wedding ceremony which united the bride and groom in marriage. "For better, for worse, for richer, for poorer, in sickness and in health, to love and to cherish, till death do you part."

The word "obey" was not used in the ceremony.

John Coolidge then took the engraved platinum wedding ring from his best man and placed it on the finger of his bride. Next to the engagement ring with its 13 diamonds which she has worn for several weeks.

Throughout the ceremony the vespers song of Mount Holyoke college, adapted from an old Connecticut air, was played as an obligato. Then came the benediction, which completed the service, and the wedding party began the recessional to the strains of Mendelssohn's "Wedding March."

As the bride party emerged from the church, Miss Trumbull smilingly posed to pose once for the photographer, and then, saying "that all, entered the waiting limousine. John, after climbing into the car, and smiled genially at the crowd.

Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge, senior, added to the merriment of the occasion as they came out of the church. The former president waved his hat and Mrs. Coolidge her handkerchief as they drove away.

Four motor cars sped the party briskly along the patrolled street to the home of the bride's father on Farmington avenue where 400 guests awaited them for the wedding reception.

Coolidge Chats.
At the reception the former president, relaxing somewhat from his usual silence, smiled and chatted with members of the Trumbull family and guests. He wore a black cutaway coat, striped trousers, and had a white gardenia in his buttonhole.

Mrs. Coolidge was constantly surrounded by friends and well wishers. Both she and her husband seemed to enjoy the festivity surrounding their son's marriage.

The bride wore a gown of old ivory satin, designed in the long lines of the princess silhouette. Her veil of old ivory tulle was draped softly over her blonde hair, ornamented with duchesse lace, falling in panel effect almost the length of her gown. The lace was lent her for the wedding by Mrs. Coolidge. Her slippers were of ivory satin.

She carried a great sheaf of white lilies bound with white ribbon, the realization of a dream which she had had since her school days at Mount Holyoke college.

HOTEL OPERATOR SUES POLICEMEN WHO RAIDED PARTY

Tuscaloosa, Ala., September 23.—(AP)—Suit for $10,000 was filed in circuit court today by John Harris, manager of the Birchfield hotel here, against Murray Tate and Finch Robertson, suspended city policemen, for alleged injuries he said he received in protesting a raid on a private dinner party in his hotel Friday night.

Harris charged he was struck several times by the officers when he attempted to prevent their entrance into the dining room after they failed to produce a search warrant. Members of some of Tuscaloosa's most prominent families were said to have been guests at the dinner.

The officers claimed they found several bottles of liquor in the dining room but reported no arrests. Harris denied liquor was found in the room.

Hearing of a charge of interfering with officers against the hotel proprietor was postponed indefinitely and all witnesses in the case were dismissed.

NEW YORK POLICE FIND MISSING SECURITIES

All But $50,000 of Half Million Placed in Mail Box.

New York, September 23.—(AP)—Police tonight recovered from an unaddressed package deposited in a mail package box all but $50,000 worth of the $512,000 in securities stolen from R. V. Hiscoe & Co., brokers, by an 18-year-old messenger boy, several days ago.

Police Commissioner Grover A. Whalen announced recovery of the securities when he arrived at police headquarters with them shortly before midnight.

A substitute carrier found the package, which resembled a waste paper package, in a mail box on the East Side and first thought of throwing it away, but finally placed it in his mail sack and took it to the Tompkins Square postoffice station.

There a clerk dumped the contents of the mail sack on a table and upon opening the brown parcel found a messenger's brief case bearing in gold letters the name R. V. Hiscoe & Co., with the name of Milton Alter, the messenger, scratched on it in two places. Postoffice officials called the police, who found all of the stolen securities excepting $50,000 worth of "fabric finishing 60's" due in 1939.

ERROR IN GINNING REPORT RAPPED

day to make a correction four and a half hours after the issuance of the cotton ginnings report.

Total ginnings were reduced 300,000 bales by the correction.

At the regular time for the report at 10 a. m. the ginnings to September 16 were announced at 3,653,038 running bales. At 2:30 p. m. officials admitted there had been an error made whereby the Georgia ginnings were found to have been 427,988 bales in excess of 727,988 bales as had previously been announced and that the total ginnings were 3,335,038 running bales.

The error was simply one of those cases of human fallibility, according to high officials here. While declining to be quoted, the following statement was made to The Constitution by a high officer of the department of commerce:

"The mistake was one made in transferring figures from a card to an addition slip. It was one of those things which is bound to happen now and again, for which there is no excuse, save the fact that the human machine is not always perfect. It is very much to be regretted."

SOUTHERN SENATORS ALARMED BY FORECAST

Washington, September 23.—(Special)—Senator Walter George, of Georgia, Senator Thomas Heflin, of Alabama, and Senator Thomas Connally, of Texas, were among those who have launched investigations in the matter of the cotton crop estimate.

The Alabama senator, declaring that the estimate is inflated 500,000 bales, expressed his belief that this inflation was enough to break the price about five dollars a bale and cost southern farmers about $70,000,000 in receipts.

Senator Heflin declared his intention to ask Carl Williams, cotton member of the federal farm board, what is to be done about the situation created by this supposed overestimate.

Senator Connally conferred directly with the secretary of agriculture Monday and though no official announcement was forthcoming, he said that in his opinion the forecast was 400-

000 to 800,000 high and blamed this over-rating on the practice of the department in making its reckonings. The senators all said that protests on the estimates have been coming in from constituents.

LOWE ASKS GEORGE TO GET EXPLANATION

Augusta, Ga., September 23.—(AP)—B. T. Lowe, president of the Atlantic

Cotton Association, late today wired Senator Walter F. George, of Georgia, requesting that an explanation be demanded of the census bureau of the error in cotton ginnings figures given out by the department today.

Lowe said he did not understand why the issuance of a correction had been delayed for hours, and characterized the mistake as a costly one for Georgia.

Coast Guard Saves 21 Lives In Spectacular Sea Rescue Off North Carolina Coast

Entire Crew of Swedish Steamer, Breaking Up in High Surf, Brought Ashore by Life Line.

Norfolk, Va., September 23.—(AP)—Twenty men and one woman were saved from certain death in the sea off Kill Devil Hills, North Carolina, early today when they were snatched from the deck of the Swedish steamer Carl Gerhard which stranded about 300 yards off shore. The vessel broke in two just a few minutes after the rescue was completed.

All of those on the doomed ship were brought safely to shore in the breeches buoy and the rescue was said to be one of the most thrilling the North Carolina coast has ever furnished.

The Gerhard, according to information received over the government sea-coast wires, had been partly disabled before she struck the beach. She had been battling a northeast gale since last Friday. Her steering gear had gone wrong and the vessel was almost helpless when she was sighted off Kill Devil Hills this morning by the patrolmen of the coast guard.

Warnings in the shape of rockets were fired by the men on the beach to apprise the Gerhard of the nearness of the shoals at that point of the coast. But the warnings proved of no avail. The ship was driven nearer and nearer the beach. She was hurled upon the shoals on the crest of a huge wave and then the sea, lashed for days by strong northeast winds, overwhelmed her. She began to go to pieces almost immediately.

The coast guardmen, unable to launch their lifeboats in the wild surf, resorted to the use of the Lyle life-line, and the breeches buoy which is a part of the life-saving outfit.

When the line, shot with remarkable accuracy from the shore, fell across the deck of the helpless craft, it was seized by eager hands and made fast to the forward mast of the Gerhard. Then the breeches buoy or basket was shot out to the ship.

Mrs. Ethel Adehard, wife of First Mate Adehard, was first to come ashore in the basket.

The life-line sagged considerably and several of those who took the ride in the basket, were dragged through the sea for several feet.

Deputies Arrested.

Mexico City, September 23.—(AP)—Universal dispatches from Tuxtla Gutierrez in the state of Chiapas say that four former deputies there have been arrested on charges of falsifying documents and seditious conspiracies. Previous to the arrests the district court refused to issue an amparo or injunction against the warrants.

Grand Jury Closes Probe of Kentucky Textbook Scandal

Frankfort, Ky., September 23.—(AP)—With the exception of a 15-minute examination of George Smith, Lexington, whose wife is one of the members of the state text book commission under indictment, along with Governor Flem D. Sampson and 25 publishers, the Franklin county grand jury today returned to local matters.

Failure of the jury to call before it any state officials, or to recall any of those it already had questioned, was construed as indicating it has practically completed its investigation of state affairs.

Georgia's Manufactures Total $609,917,660 in '27

Washington, September 23.—(Special)—Products valued at $609,917,660 were manufactured by 3,175 Georgia industrial concerns in the year 1927, supporting 154,188 wage earners who received in total wages the sum of $108,118,193, according to a census of manufacturers in the state announced today by the United States department of commerce.

The department's report revealed that these Georgia manufacturing establishments used raw materials valued at $260,201,684. It thus was indicated that the gross profit from industrial enterprise in the state was $349,655,976 for the year named.

Fulton county, of course, ran far ahead of all others in the state both in the number of operating establishments and the value of products manufactured. It was shown that the county embracing Atlanta, with 480 manufacturing concerns employing 21,750 wage earners who were paid $21,095,074 in wages, produced goods valued at $136,704,528. The value of raw materials used by Fulton county firms was placed at $76,690,877. Earlier the department issued a report on manufacturing activities in the various cities of the state for the same year, showing that of the total number of concerns in Fulton county 248 were located in Atlanta. The city was revealed to have 18,383 industrial wage earners receiving $17,073,558 in wages annually, while finished manufactured goods were valued at $115,830,250, of which $64,342,699 represented the cost of raw materials.

By comparison with figures for 1925, two years earlier, the report revealed that the value of manufactured goods in Atlanta decreased approximately $15,000,000 for the two-year period, although wage earners were paid about the same in both years and retained their numbers. Cost of raw materials in the city, however, was some $8,500,000 less in 1927 than in 1925.

Next to Fulton county, Chatham, of which Savannah is the county seat, produced goods of the highest value. There were 142 establishments employing 6,168 wage earners, paid $3,336,671, producing goods valued at $60,056,751 in which raw materials were used valued at $45,558,168.

Muscogee county was third with 77 firms, employing 12,081 wage earners who received as wages $8,668,365, manufacturing goods valued at $43,148,535 out of raw materials costing $23,459,921.

Bibb county had 103 firms and 8,632 wage earners paid $6,218,322. Value of manufactured products was $39,075,915, raw materials $24,378,417.

THE New PACKARD STANDARD EIGHTS

offer the outstanding luxury, comfort and engineering improvements which the world expects from Packard

THE new Packard Standard Eights offer important engineering advances and greatly enriched fittings and appointments. They are more beautiful, more convenient, more comfortable—in a word, more luxurious—than ever before.

These superb cars, outstanding in the fine car field, are now on display at our show rooms. We want you to see them—drive them and then compare them point by point with your ideal of what a truly fine car ought to be.

You will find that they differ from the costlier Packards only in size, power and degree of individuality available in color, upholstery and details of appointment. For the new Standard Eights are Packards through and through—distinguished, smooth and fleet.

Eleven Roomy and Luxurious Models

The new Packard Standard Eight line includes eleven beautiful body types. Prices at the factory range from $2375 for the popular Five-Passenger Sedan of 127½-inch wheelbase to $2775 for the Seven-Passenger Sedan-Limousine with wheelbase of 134½ inches.

All models embody the new Packard refinements and improvements such as inside, adjustable sun visors, adjustable driver's seat and steering gear, newly-perfected shatter-proof glass, dash board lockers—and the improved powerplant with its four-speed transmission and still further refined Packard straight-eight engine.

Packard Transportation Costs No More

If you want a new Packard Standard Eight there is no reason why you should not have it. Operation and maintenance costs are not greater because first cost is more. Even if first cost is twice as much, final cost is no greater if the better car is driven twice as long. Packard owners do drive their cars nearly twice as long as the lower-priced cars they trade in.

Analyze ownership costs in the light of these facts and you will find that you, too, can enjoy the luxury of Packard transportation—at no greater expense.

Thousands of motorists have found this true. Two out of three who buy Packard Standard Eights give up other makes of cars to do so!

We cordially invite you to see the new Packard Standard Eights—and to drive one. We will gladly explain the costs of ownership, so that you can compare them with your present motoring expenses. Your old car will be accepted as cash, and you may buy out of income if you prefer.

Why not be one of the first to enjoy the distinction of owning one of the new Packard Standard Eights?

HANDBOOK PLACES RAIDED BY POLICE IN NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, September 23.—(P)—Squads of police today swooped down on handbook establishments in all parts of the city on orders from Acting Mayor T. Semmes Wainwright as his answer to charges that the old regular democratic organization was collecting protection money from the betting commissioners.

Some of the bookies had received a tipoff and they had hidden the evidence before the police arrived, and Police Superintendent Theodore Ray has started an inquiry to learn who gave out the tips. The raids were planned and were conducted simultaneously in all of the city. Police captains were called in by the superintendent and told in stern language to "go get 'em."

Mr. Wainwright said he had received reports that some persons had been soliciting funds from the bookmakers under the guise of campaign funds for the old regulars. He declared nobody was authorized to collect campaign funds for the organization at this time.

DECATUR WOMAN WEIGHED ONLY 80 POUNDS; GAINS 16

"Sargon Has Meant Health, Strength and Happiness to Me," Says Miss Mobley—Statement Is Remarkable.

"When I began taking Sargon I only weighed 80 pounds but in 30 days' time this wonderful medicine increased my weight to 96 pounds, a gain of 16 pounds," said Miss Claudia

MISS CLAUDIA MOBLEY.

Mobley, of 5 Simpkins St., Decatur, recently.

"I had been in wretched health for eight years, suffering with liver trouble, chronic constipation and other disorders, and as hard as I tried, I just couldn't find any medicine or treatment that would really help me. I had severe pains in my neck, back and shoulders at times, and I often had raging headaches for hours at a time. I became so nervous I was on the verge of hysteria. It just seemed like every nerve in my body was on edge. My stomach was badly disordered and nearly everything I ate caused nausea or other disagreeable effects. I lost weight and was getting weaker all the time. Finally I was forced to go to bed and stay for five long weeks.

"One day I read about Sargon and hoping against hope I began taking it. Within a week's time a wonderful change for the better took place. My appetite picked up and I began to gain strength. In four weeks the continued use of Sargon and Sargon Pills had driven every ache and pain from my body, and I had gained sixteen pounds. My stomach troubles seem to have been entirely overcome.

"Sargon Soft Mass Pills regulated my liver and ended my constipation of years' standing, and did it without upsetting me in the least. Sargon has meant health, strength and happiness to me, and I am glad of an opportunity to give this testimonial in sincere gratitude for the good it did me."

Hundreds are daily calling on the special Sargon representative at Jacobs' main store, 14 Marietta St., to learn more about this remarkable new medicine. Sargon may also be obtained at all Jacobs' drug stores throughout Atlanta.—(adv.)

Route of Ford Reliability Tour

October 5 will mark the start of the fifth national air tour for the Edsel-B. Ford trophy at Detroit. Approximately 50 planes are entered in the tour which is designed to promote civil aeronautics and demonstrate the reliability of airplane travel. Pilots will fly 5,000 miles in 16 days, visiting some 30 cities in the United States and Canada. Map of the route is above, below, a group of planes ready to take off from Detroit in the 1928 race. Word was received Monday from Detroit that Augusta, Ga., has been substituted for the Savannah stop on the above map.

*The mail was sent by train from Washington because of bad weather. Northbound plane from New Orleans held at Birmingham by bad weather. Bad weather prevented the New York plane from leaving Candler field. *Bad weather between here and Birmingham prevented the departure of the New Orleans plane.

Monday at Candler field, so far as flying conditions were concerned, was one of the most lustrous days in long, long time. A blanket of fog enveloped the airport practically throughout the dismal day and during the afternoon only two planes, other than mail ships, were taken from their hangars. Mail schedules were pretty much shot to pieces and operators are hoping that the more reasonable weather promised for today will come to pass.

W. L. Jamieson, pilot for Interstate Airlines, Inc., on the Atlanta-Chicago line, had a narrow escape late Sunday afternoon from a forced landing in pitchy black darkness and through the blackness of a heavy fog—a feat which almost certainly would have meant his serious injury or worse, to say nothing of a cracked-up plane. Leaving Chattanooga at 5:10 o'clock Sunday afternoon with a ceiling ranging from 200 to 300 feet, the atmosphere closed in soon after he left the Tennessee city and he found himself forced to do a fancy bit of blind flying.

Swooping down occasionally in an effort to get his bearings, Jamieson covered a wide sweep of country to the west, south and southwest of the airport before he finally located it at 7:25 o'clock, just one hour behind schedule. His gas tank was practically empty when he reached his destination and he would have had to bring his ship down within a very few more minutes. Jamieson, one of the most intrepid fliers at Candler field, recently was given the $100 award offered by the Chicago News for the most meritorious feat accomplished by an airmail pilot. Turning over his plane to the inexperienced hands of his brother, who happened to be riding with him several months ago, Jamieson climbed down to the landing gear and tied on a wheel which had come loose from its moor-

MEXICAN AVIATOR LOST IN DERBY TO KANSAS CITY

Mexico City, September 23.—(P)—Grave fears were held here tonight for Colonel Roberto Fierro, one of the leading aviators of Mexico and an entry in the Mexico City-Kansas City air race which began here today.

Searching airplanes had run down a rumor that he had made a forced landing in northeastern Hidalgo province and found nothing to substantiate it. The department of communications was in constant touch with its stations between here and Tampico, the scheduled first stop but received no word of the missing aviator. Only Art Goebel, of California to Hawaii flying plane, was able to negotiate the flight to Tampico through mountains by a hidden airway, but storm today. After a brief stop at Tampico he pushed on to Brownsville, Texas, with the intention of completing the race here tomorrow.

Four of the five Mexican entries in the race returned to the starting point at Valbuena field this afternoon. One of the pilots, Lieutenant Colonel Fernando Proal, went into a dangerous spin near Pachuca, but regained control of his machine. He made a forced landing and returned here later.

MRS. B. A. DICKERSON BURIED AT WAYCROSS

Waycross, Ga., September 23.—(Special)—Mrs. B. A. Dickerson, 38, who died Friday at her home following an illness of about two years, was laid to rest yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Funeral services were held from the Central Baptist church, conducted by the Rev. T. W. Callaway, pastor.

Besides her husband, she is survived by two daughters, Miss Virgie Dickerson and Miss Virdell Dickerson, of Waycross; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Seymour, of Nicholls; two brothers, E. D. Seymour, of Waycross, and H. V. Seymour, of Nicholls; and six sisters, Mrs. G. R. Seymour, of Waycross; Mrs. R. C. Crews, of Waycross; Mrs. W. H. Meek, of Nicholls; Miss Carla Seymour, of Nicholls; Miss Jewel Seymour, of Nicholls, and Mrs. Ruby Hargis, of Nicholls.

STORMS HOLDING PLANE OF SOVIETS ON ATTU ISLAND

Seattle, Wash., September 23.—(P)—Unfavorable weather was believed by navy radio officials today to have forced the Russian plane "Land of the Soviets" to remain on Attu island instead of hopping for Dutch Harbor, Alaska, as planned.

A radio message received here today from Captain Cochran, commander of the coast guard Bering Sea fleet, said the plane was to leave Attu, most westward of the Aleutian islands, at 5:30 a. m. on the next leg of its flight from Moscow to New York. Lack of word of the take-off led to the belief that rain and fog had delayed the start.

The Russians arrived at Attu Saturday from Petropavlovsk, Kamchatka, Siberia, after crossing Bering Strait. The scheduled flight of 752 miles from Attu to Dutch Harbor yesterday was postponed until today because of the weather. Conditions were unchanged today.

The plane left Moscow a month ago today. After reaching Dutch Harbor it was to the American continent at Seward, Alaska. From Seward it is to fly to Sitka, Alaska, and then to Seattle, where its pontoons will be replaced by wheels. The Russians will go to New York by way of San Francisco.

VALDOSTA RITES FOR MRS. FLETCHER

Valdosta, Ga., September 23.—(Special)—Funeral services were held at the Sineath chapel at 10 o'clock yesterday morning for Mrs. Candace Fletcher, 65, whose death occurred in this city at a local hospital following a long illness.

Mrs. Fletcher is survived by one daughter, Miss Nona Fletcher, and several brothers and sisters, including R. C. Blanton, of Savannah; P. D. Blanton, of Bradenton, Fla.; C. M. Blanton, of Jacksonville, Fla.; Mrs. G. R. DeLoach, of Valdosta; Miss Audrey Blanton, of Lowndes; Mrs. G. W. Taylor, of Valdosta; and Mrs. J. C. Millsap, of Moultrie.

Atlanta Youth, Now Navy Flier, Is Here on Visit

A 500-mile jaunt home for the weekend means practically nothing in the life of Lieutenant (Junior Grade) W.

LT. W. G. COOPER.

G. Cooper, who arrived in Atlanta Friday afternoon from Norfolk, Va., just a little more than four hours after he and five other naval officers had taken off from the naval base at Hampton Roads.

Lieutenant Cooper is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Cooper, of 780 Ponce de Leon avenue, and has called Atlanta home for the past 10 years. He is a graduate of Boys' High school and attended Georgia Tech for a year before entering the naval academy in 1922. Graduating in 1926 he entered naval aviation in May, 1928, completing his flying course at Pensacola, Fla., the early part of this year, when he was transferred to Norfolk.

The six planes were favored by a tail wind on their flight here and the actual flying time was slightly over four hours. The fleet of scouting planes had planned to return Saturday morning but due to unfavorable weather conditions here and all along the route, have remained here. They hope to take off this morning if all is well with the weather.

Accompanying Lieutenant Cooper are Lieutenant (Junior Grade) D. E. Wilcox, Lieutenant J. P. Whitney, Lieutenant C. M. Huntington, flight commander; Ensign O. P. Smoot and Ensign W. G. Hughes.

TWO NEGRO WOMEN JAILED BY POLICE AS "SHOPLIFTERS"

While one held a sack as the other filled it with merchandise, two negro women, said to be sisters, were arrested by operatives of the Stores Mutual Protective Association late Monday afternoon in a downtown department store on charges of "shoplifting," and were held in default of $200 bail each. They gave their names as Maude Hall, 25, and Birell Hall, 16, both of a Crew street address. Officers Douglass Poole and J. N. Sewell made the arrests.

PANTAGES TRIAL IN CLOSING ACT; PLEADINGS BEGIN

Los Angeles, September 23.—(P)—Prospect that the case of Mrs. Lois Pantages, charged with second degree murder in connection with the death of Juro Rokumoto as the result of an automobile collision, would go to the jury tomorrow became a certainty as court adjourned late today after a four-hour plea by Max Steiner, New York attorney for the defense.

Steiner expected to finish his closing statement tomorrow morning. The courtroom was packed as the attorney made his final plea in behalf of the wealthy theatre magnate's wife whom the state accused of driving her auto into Rokumoto's car while under the influence of liquor.

In a voice barely audible, Steiner first attacked the prosecution for its methods of presenting the case and then went into the evidence attempting to tear down the statements of witnesses for the state and emphasizing the testimony of the defense. He told the jury that the defendant was being "persecuted" by the state "because she is a woman of wealth."

AN ANCIENT PREJUDICE HAS BEEN REMOVED

That ancient prejudice which hoarded gold with the fanatical zeal of the miser has vanished. Under the sheltering wing of AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE flourish thousands of banking institutions to which the individual safely entrusts his wealth.

"toasting did it"—

Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.

YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted."

"TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way.

Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful, corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women.

"It's toasted"

No Throat Irritation—No Cough.

"It's Toasted"—the phrase that describes the extra "toasting" process applied in the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes. The finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—are scientifically subjected to penetrating heat at minimum, 260°—maximum, 300°, Fahrenheit. The exact, expert regulation of such high temperatures removes impurities. More than a slogan, "It's Toasted" is recognized by millions as the most modern step in cigarette manufacture.

AUSTIN PEAY NORMAL OPENS FIRST SESSION

College Situated Upon One of Tennessee's Oldest Educational Sites.

Clarksville, Tenn., September 23.—(AP)—The Austin Peay normal, named in honor of the late governor of Tennessee, opened its first term today on one of the state's oldest educational sites.

The normal and junior college occupy the property formerly owned by the Southwestern Presbyterian university, which moved to Memphis five years ago.

Montgomery county rural schools were dismissed for day in order that the teachers might attend the opening exercises. Among the 1,000 or more persons expected at the opening were Governor Horton, Congressman Joseph

W. Hyams, members of the state board of education, members of the supreme court, and a number of state legislators.

The enrollment was expected to be under 100, but President J. S. Ziegler has emphasized that the normal did not count on many students at the fall term.

The normal and its predecessors in ownership and occupancy date back to 1850, when the Masonic University of Tennessee was established. It was conducted until 1850, when local interests purchased it and established Stewart college. At the outbreak of the Civil War most of the students enlisted in the Confederacy, and during the war the buildings were used by both the Confederate and Union armies. In 1873 the institution became Southwestern Presbyterian university and continued as such until 1924.

Funds were provided by the 1927 legislature for rehabilitation of the property and conduct of the school, and following the death of Governor Peay it was decided to name the school in his memory.

The state board of education has spent more than $200,000 in the last two years in rehabilitating and modernizing the buildings.

War Might Have Been Stayed By Herrick's 'Lost Cablegram'

New York, September 23.—(AP)—A "lost cablegram" sent by Ambassador Herrick from Paris to Washington on July 28, 1914, a few hours before Austria declared war on Serbia, is made public in the opening installment of the late ambassador's biography appearing in the October issue of World's Work magazine. The message, sent to William Jennings Bryan, secretary of state, urged that President Wilson plead for delay.

Mr. Herrick is quoted by Colonel T. Bentley Mott, his military attaché and biographer, as saying: "Bryan never answered or acknowledged my telegram. I never knew whether Mr. Wilson ever saw it until I was in Washington a few months afterward. I then asked him. He told me he had not seen it."

The message follows: July 28, 1914, 4 P. M. Secretary of State, Washington. Confidential—To Be Communicated to the President: Situation in Europe is regarded here as the gravest in history. It apprehended that civilization is threatened by demoralization which would follow a general conflagration. Demonstration made against war here last night by laboring classes; it is said to be the first instance of its kind in France.

MAYOR OF BERLIN REACHES AMERICA FOR "INSPECTION"

New York, September 23.—(AP)—Herr Gustav Boess, mayor of Berlin, Germany, arrived here today and immediately started on what he plans to be a very busy month of sight seeing in the United States.

Accompanied by Mrs. Boess, Dr. Willy Mueller-Wieland, chief doctor of Berlin; Dr. Von Braginski, widely known authority on contagious diseases; Alderman Wilhelm Meulek, Berlin's official greeter, and Herr Nydahl, city school councillor of Berlin, Mayor Boess was greeted by representatives of Mayor Walker and escorted to his hotel.

The official welcoming for the German party will be held tomorrow at the city hall, where Mayor Boess will repay the visit Mayor Walker made to Berlin two years ago.

FRIEND OF CAROL FOUND MURDERED AT BANAT, RUMANIA

ILLINOIS DOCTOR DECLARES SNAKES BREAK IN PIECES

Dr. J. C. Sheffield, of Tennessee, Ill., a subscriber of The Constitution, takes issue with a statement made in the newspaper's issue of September 7 which alleged that such a thing as a joint snake does not exist.

The statement referred to follows: "The tales of glass snakes that break in pieces if struck are entirely mythical."

Dr. Sheffield asserts that though he is not a naturalist, he knows snakes, and further claims that he has seen scores of the so-called joint-snakes break up when struck even struck but when the earth is not run from them.

The doctor in a letter to The Constitution is felt that if Germany once mobilizes no backward step will be taken. France has strong reliance on her army but is not giving way to undue excitement. There is a faith and reliance on our high ideals and purposes that I believe an expression from our nation would have great weight in this crisis. My opinion is encouraged at reception given utterance of British minister of foreign affairs.

I believe that a strong plea for delay and moderation from the president of the United States would meet with the respect and approval of Europe and urge the prompt consideration of this question. This suggestion is consistent with our plea for arbitration treaties and attitude toward world affairs generally. I would not appear to be inconsistent in my duty to make this expression to you.

HERRICK: "A similar fate may have befallen another telegram I sent September 3. Mr. Herrick is quoted as saying. This reference is to a message sent to the president of the United States, in which the ambassador stated that the United States join other neutral powers in asking the embattled nations to respect and protect the museums, churches, art galleries and similar edifices in invaded territory.

BANKER WAGGONER TO PLEAD INSANITY IN $500,000 DEAL

Denver, Col., September 23.—(AP)—Insanity will be the defense of C. D. Waggoner, president of the Bank of Telluride, Col., when he faces a New York federal jury on an indictment charging use of the mails to defraud in connection with his half-million-dollar swindle of six New York banks.

Sammel D. Crump, his attorney, announced today. The announcement was made coincident with the start of Waggoner's trip back to New York from Cheyenne, Wyo., where he had been held in jail. "Insanity is his only defense," Mr. Crump said. "He will plead not guilty when arraigned in the New York federal court and rely on the evidence during the trial to convince the jury that he was not in his right mind."

GUNMAN KILLS CHILD IN ARMS OF HIS FATHER

Madison, Wis., September 23.—(AP)—Gunman in ambush killed a 3-year-old child in the arms of his father in Madison's "Little Italy" late last night. The father, Charles Giosi, was wounded, perhaps fatally.

A shotgun with slugs was used. Giosi, carrying his son, Frank, in his arms, was walking through a dark alley when his attacker opened fire. Doctors said that the child suffered the fatal wound of the shot, and this, they added, saved the elder Giosi from instant death.

ANOTHER REVOLT BREWS IN CHINA AS GENEAL REBELS

Shanghai, September 23.—(AP)—Reuters News Agency tonight reported that General Chang Fah Kwei, having refused last week to obey an order to move his "Ironsides" division from Ichang to Shantung, had crossed the Yangtze and was marching toward Kwangsi intending to join other disaffected troops there.

It was stated that Chang with two Kwangsi leaders and the governors of Kansu and Shansi provinces aim to oust the Nanking government headed by Chiang Kai Shek and place the left wing of the Kuomintang party in power.

President Chiang, who is also commander in chief of the nationalist armies, was rushing troops with artillery and airplanes under orders to disarm the Ironsides and also to take measures to insure the safety of Canton.

Senators Eulogize Tyson of Tennessee, In Short Memorial

Washington, September 23.—(AP)—The late Senator Lawrence D. Tyson, of Tennessee, was eulogized today during special memorial services in the senate chamber as a citizen, statesman and soldier.

Fourteen of the senator's colleagues spoke of his kindly disposition, his numerous accomplishments both in public and private life, and of his valor on the battlefield during the World War, in which he served as a brigadier general.

No Charges Against Patrons Arrested In Raid on Club

New Orleans, La., September 23.—(AP)—Deputy Administrator Edward Henley, in charge of a score of prohibition agents who early Sunday swooped down on the "Bungalow," exclusive suburban night club, announced today that no charges would be placed against 120 well-to-do patrons whose names were recorded.

FORGET-ME-NOT DRIVE PLANS ARE COMPLETED

Supplies Will Be Distributed to Workers at Haverly Store Today.

Forget-me-nots by the thousands of dozens, a truckload of little tin buckets, and other supplies for the thousand or more workers in Wednesday's "Forget-Me-Not Day" campaign, will be distributed today at the J. J. Haverly furniture store, headquarters for the big drive for the Disabled American Veterans.

Every woman and girl who has been enlisted for the drive through their various clubs and other organizations is urged by the executive committee to call at the Haverly store for the supplies, in order that the drive may begin promptly at 7 o'clock Wednesday morning.

"Let We Forget" will be the slogan of Forget-Me-Not Day, when every passerby on the streets and in the office buildings will be asked to wear a tiny flower, emblem of the World War, and contribute something to the veterans' fund.

No Worker to Profit. "Every dime or dollar that is given will be devoted wholly to helping needy veterans of the great war," it is announced. "No worker in the drive will be given a penny of compensation. There is no overhead expense. The funds will be deposited in an Atlanta bank and paid out only through the finance committee of the local chapter, composed of responsible business men."

"There are hundreds of ex-service men in Atlanta and near-by who are really in a pitiable condition. They are not able to earn enough to support their families. Some draw government compensation, but this is insufficient to meet their needs. Such cases are carefully checked and investigated, and ways are found to help such veterans. One of the most important works of the Disabled American Veterans' organization is in helping worthy service men to press their claims for government compensation which has been withheld through technicalities."

Indorsed by Hoover. The drive has the indorsement of President Hoover, governors of every state in the Union, and the mayors of all the cities where the campaign is to be carried on. Mayor Ragsdale has issued a proclamation urging the generous support of the Atlanta public. The veterans will not have to as-

Textile Strike Prosecutor Faces Peculiar Situations

Charlotte, N. C., September 23.—(AP)—Solicitor John G. Carpenter finds himself in peculiar situations these days.

The series of court actions following the textile labor disturbances have made Mr. Carpenter's allies of one day his legal enemies the next.

In the case of 13 men and 3 women, all figures in the spring strike in the North Carolina mill section, now charged with the murder on June 7 of Police Chief O. F. Aderholt, of Gastonia, the solicitor has some of the group of about 100 state witnesses under indictment for other offenses.

Two of the group, T. A. Gilbert and Arthur J. Ronch, the former a regular Gastonia police officer and the latter a special deputy, were both with Chief Aderholt on the night he was fatally wounded and are considered vital witnesses. Yet they face charges of assault with a deadly weapon on a filling station proprietor on the afternoon before the chief was shot. Defense counsel for the 16 in the murder case has charged that the officers were intoxicated in the afternoon and had not become sober at the time they accompanied Aderholt to the Lory mill strikers' colony that night.

Other witnesses in the murder case have been accused of participating in the activities of the mob which kidnaped Ben Wells, C. D. Saylor and C. M. Lell, three unionists, and flogged Wells on the night of September 9.

While the solicitor was assisting some this year the burden of asking funds for their disabled comrades, as the patriotic women of Atlanta and the fifth district have taken on that responsibility. Under the general chairmanship of Mrs. H. M. Nicholes, the Federation of Women's Clubs of the city and the district have organized the campaign, and 110 of the organizations in the federation have provided committees for the work.

Every street corner and office building Wednesday will have its teams of women, offering the tiny forget-me-nots, and other committees will work in the suburbs and the principal towns in the district. Several thousand dollars in cash is expected to be turned in by Wednesday night.

Aged Rabbi Dead.

Budapest, September 23.—(AP)—The death of Rabbi Koppel Reich, 92 years old, the spiritual leader of Hungarian Orthodox Jews, and a member of the Hungarian upper house, was announced today.

Judge Thomas J. Shaw in his investigation of the mob violence Saylor testified that Mr. Carpenter, himself was one of the leaders of the parade which preceded the kidnapping. The solicitor was called as the first defense witness in his own case and in vigorous language denied the accusation of Saylor. There was no one but Judge Shaw to conduct the cross-examination. The judge later said that he did not believe Saylor's testimony regarding Mr. Carpenter and gave no consideration to the charge.

In the inquest into the death of Mrs. Ella May Wiggins, strike leader, slain by a mob which sought to prevent her and 22 others from attending a labor meeting on September 14 seven men were held on manslaughter charges and associates of the unionists who are defendants in the Aderholt murder case have said they are ready to aid Mr. Carpenter in the prosecution of the alleged slayers of the woman.

Another unusual situation brought about by the court actions was the association of Solicitor Carpenter and Major A. L. Bulwinkle, attorney for the Lory mill, in the prosecution of the Aderholt case. Major Bulwinkle was congressman from this district and he and Mr. Carpenter were opponents in the democratic primary of last year. Bulwinkle defeated the solicitor in this contest but was beaten in the general election by the republican nominee.

Mr. Ramspeck will speak at the Hapeville city auditorium at 8 o'clock Thursday night, and on next Monday night at the Decatur courthouse.

E. E. Phillips, East Point city attorney, will preside at the meeting tonight and introduce the speakers. James C. Davis, of DeKalb county, one time mentioned as a candidate for congress, and formerly in the state legislature, will speak in Mr. Ramspeck's behalf.

ARSON, BLACKMAIL PLOTS CAUSE SUICIDES

Mother and Daughter Dead. Father, Son Behind Bars.

Wabash, Ind., September 23.—(AP)—An arson and blackmail plot in which an entire family is alleged to have participated, has culminated in the suicide of the mother and a daughter and prison sentences for the father and a son.

Mrs. Charles Keaffaber, 47, and her daughter Helen, 24, were found dead in their farm home near Hanna yesterday. They had taken poison. The daughter had confessed to county officers last week that she was the writer of unsigned letters sent to several persons in this vicinity threatening destruction of their property unless ransom was made for fancied wrongs.

The husband and father of the family, Charles Keaffaber, 46, and the son, Roy, 25, are held in jail here under prison sentences of one to ten years each. The father and son have pleaded guilty to setting fire to a sawmill at Akron, Ind., last month and a farm building near here two years ago.

Mrs. Keaffaber was not implicated in the plot by other members of the family, but authorities believe she had knowledge of their actions.

TUNNEY REPLIES TO LOVE SUIT; ASKS DAMAGES

Bridgeport, Conn., September 23.—(AP)—James J. (Gene) Tunney, retired heavyweight champion, filed an answer and counter suit in superior court today to the $500,000 suit recently brought against him by John S. Fogarty, of Fort Worth, Texas, who charged Tunney with alienating the affections of his wife, Katherine King Fogarty. The latter is suing Tunney for $500,000, charging him with breach of promise to marry.

Tunney in his counter action against Mr. Fogarty asks damages of $100,000. In the answer to Fogarty's action, Tunney in 13 words denies the truth of the charges. In the complaint filed by Fogarty and in the earlier complaint, filed by the Fort Worth woman, it was charged that Tunney met Mrs. Fogarty at Hot Springs, Ark., in 1924, and carried on an affair with her at Lakeview, N. J., St. Paul, Minn., Chicago and New York.

ONLY HORMEL FOODS ARE "FLAVOR SEALED"

HERE IS THE LATEST IN FOOD

The Government Inspects It—Flavor-Sealing Protects It

A revolutionary development—in protection, in goodness, in convenience. The "open cracker barrel age" is past. The sealed package has given the housewife foods that are always wholesome, sanitary, and standard in quality.

Now—WHOLE Chicken may be had in a vacuum-sealed package. INSPECTED and CERTIFIED by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. And identified by a nationally advertised label.

For two years, the scientists, chefs, and dieticians who developed the Flavor-Sealed Idea have been concentrating on this—another innovation.

"What is the most widely used food which the Flavor-Sealed Idea can improve?" they asked.

"Chicken," was the answer.

"It must be a WHOLE Chicken," said one, "not simply chicken meat, but the whole bird, neither cut up nor boned."

"That's what the public has been waiting for," said another, "a whole chicken ready cooked, but one which can be roasted or broiled, fried or fricasseed, in a fraction of the ordinary cooking time, and instantly ready for salads and cold luncheons."

"That's it," said a third, "the Flavor-Sealed Idea—see kitchen time—like heavy labor all done—no more cleaning, singeing and picking pin feathers!"

So the Flavor-Sealed Idea was applied to WHOLE Chicken.

Flavor-Sealing saves those natural flavors and juices lost in ordinary cooking. This chicken is cooked in the sealed tin. Flavor is cooked in, not out.

"But," said the dietitian, "the housewife wants to see the chicken she buys—she wants to know that she is getting a good, young, tender bird."

"Yes," all agreed, "we must use none but carefully selected milk-fed chickens."

"How will the housewife know that she is getting a healthy bird?"

"Every Flavor-Sealed Chicken will be INSPECTED and CERTIFIED by the U. S. Government."

Thus was Flavor-Sealed WHOLE Chicken conceived. Thus it is produced.

By special arrangement, Government Inspection has been carried to the heart of that great poultry-producing region of the Northwest.

Here is all you have wanted in chicken. Healthy, wholesome, clean chicken. Good Chicken now made even better by Flavor-Sealing. And convenience! Time and labor saved. You can now keep chicken on your pantry shelf—ready for immediate use.

This way, too, you secure the rich jellied juices for flavorful, tempting soups and gravies.

The more alert food retailer has been quick to adopt this new way of selling whole chicken. The public is equally quick to appreciate its goodness—its time and labor saving convenience. Product of Geo. A. Hormel & Co., Austin, Minn.

Critical Comments on Current Playhouse Programs

At the Paramount.

"Illusion," a Paramount all-talking picture featuring Buddy Rogers and Nancy Carroll. The talking comedy is "Ladies Choice." Also Paramount News, Fashion News and song picture. Picture begins at 1:30 a. m., 1:30 p. m., 3:30 p. m., 5:30 p. m., 7:30 p. m., and 9:30 p. m.

Nancy Carroll, as sweet a little thing as ever stormed and won the heart of a movie audience, and her boy friend, Buddy Rogers, should do a big business for Mr. Publix this week at the Paramount. And the simple reason is that Miss Carroll and Mr. Rogers have just about "everything."

Arthur Train's great novel, "Illusion," is a story of which Lother Meville, the director, has made the most. The casting is about as perfect as one could hope for, with such stars as Kay Francis, June Collyer, Regis Toomey, Lillian Roth, Emelie Melville, William Austin, and others.

The voices in "Illusion" are all easy on the ears. Emelie Melville, as "Mother Fay," takes the cake for her masterly handling of that role. The story concerns vaudeville partners who have an up and coming illusion act, with Rogers as the master of black magic and Miss Carroll as his clever assistant. Rogers follows an illusion, but in the end comes to see the light.

In "Illusion" the author mixed Fifth avenue and stage performers, producing a charming story with dramatic moments and a climax. The action of the story moves fast, with occasional pleasant interludes. Such pictures as "Illusion" make audiences glad that somebody invented the talkies.

The Paramount program this week includes a clever talking comedy, "Ladies Choice," the Paramount sound news, the Fashion News, and a side-splitting comedy song.

Paramount's latest bid for all-talking fame, "Woman Trap," a drama of love and revenge at the Georgia this week. The outstanding performers are Evelyn Brent, Hal Skelly and Chester Morris, all of whom have heretofore proven themselves capable of exacting attention in tense moments. It is a story of a woman's love and her revenge. Those who know Evelyn Brent also know she is capable of love and capable of revenge. In this picture Miss Brent outdoes all she ever has done previously and is aided no little by Skelly, a recent arrival from the stage and Morris, who made a great hit in "Alibi." The story is one taken from the stage play "Brothers." Skelly plays the role of a detective while Morris is a younger ne'er-do-well brother. But it is not altogether a crook play for there is the mother of the two brothers to provide the pathos and the girl, Miss Brent, to provide the love and the drama. All in all "Woman Trap" is pleasing entertainment and should be one of the hits of the season.

"His Baby Daze" is in full swing from start to finish and does much to bring the audience out of the drama of the

The Bedini unit show is one of the best seen here this year. Among the feature players, all of whom acquit themselves nobly are Skelly Miller, the Webb Sisters, Cuby and Smith, May Myers, the Kit Kat Trio, Mary Gardner, the Jack Mason Girls and Bert Gardner and Charles (Red) Russell.

At the Capitol.

"The Hollywood Revue," a Metro-Goldwyn picture with 25 screen stars, including Cliff Edwards, Stan Laurel, Oliver Hardy, Jack Benny, Conrad Nagel, Marie Dressler and others. Fox movie news. No vaudeville this week. Feature picture starts 12:15, 2:30, 4:45, 7:00 and 9:10 o'clock.

Here, at last, ladies and gentlemen, is a feature length picture which makes no pretense of having a plot of any kind, but gives itself up entirely to a disconnected series of sketches like any other revue. Here again, is a picture in which a host of stars really make more than an appearance and actually contribute something to the gaiety of nations. It is a big-time vaudeville brought to the screen in a big way and no mistake.

Like any revue, it is much better in some parts than in others, but there are enough different kinds of scenes to give almost any type of theater-goer a good return on his box office investment. While it is really difficult to single out any outstanding stars, the writer feels no hesitancy in going on record in the effect that Marie Dressler, Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy would have stopped the show if it hadn't been a movie. The recent reports of "Klebe" (Klebe) demise were greatly exaggerated. Jack Benny and Conrad Nagel can master any ceremonies recorded to date. And "Singing in the Rain" is one piece of music which probably will linger for a while.

These are merely random thoughts on the production, but we could bring this to a close in no better manner than by advising a visit to Loew's Atlanta playhouse during the current week.

—C. B. WILMER, JR.

At the Metropolitan.

"Fast Life," an all-talking First National picture with Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Loretta Young, Merle, Chester Morris, a Charley Chase comedy. "The Big Squawk" and "The Big Squawk" are the shorts. Red Nichols and His Orchestra. Time of show: 11, 1, 3, 5, 7 and 9.

At last there has come to town an all-talking picture, and there isn't a detective or a district attorney in sight. The theater-going public surely ought to go for "Fast Life" at the Metropolitan for that if for no other reason.

"Fast Life" is another of those dramas wherein the condemned but innocent hero is snatched from the death chair in the last 50 feet of film when his boy friend confesses the murder and does the Dutch act. Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., is the condemned hero this time, with Loretta Young as the faithful and beautiful wife with Chester Morris as the boy friend who owns up to firing the shot, just as they are about to put the juice to young Doug.

In recent months we've had Barthelmess and George Bancroft filmed along death row. One supplied the thrills for the fluttering girlfolk and the other costed the nerves of the big boys. If any young Doug takes his stabs of execution like a man and for all we know would have taken the trap like a man, had he been forced to do it.

The picture is misnamed, as are a lot of others, labeled chiefly to catch the public eye. It is doubtful if there ever was a jury that convicted a man for murder on the evidence this scenarioist put forth. But in all, there are the thrills and Loretta Young provides plenty of spasms for the optics.

For those who like fun there is Charley Chase in "The Big Squawk." Charley is funny and the ladies of the attendant scantily clad ensemble are—well, scantily clad.

RICHARD DIX SEEN IN CAMEO "TALKIE"

Richard Dix returns to the type of acting in which he won his first great honors in "The Wheel of Life." Paramount's all-talking picture of the successful stage play by James Bernard Fagan, which is showing at the Cameo Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

Dix is cast in his production as a captain in the British army in India. He falls in love with the young and unhappy wife of his commanding officer. The events that follow are a very tense and dramatic production. Esther Ralston and O. P. Heggie have the important roles of the wife and the commanding officer.

S. C. MERCER DIES AT BAXLEY HOME

Baxley, Ga., September 23.—(Special.)—S. C. Mercer died unexpectedly today while at dinner. He is survived by his wife, eight children and 27 grandchildren. He will be buried here Wednesday.

Resolution Is Referred.

Washington, September 23.—(Special.)—The LaFollette resolution, asking a senate investigation of the issuance by Federal Judge W. H. Fitzpatrick, of the eastern district of Pennsylvania, of a temporary injunction restraining the amalgamated clothing workers from organizing, was referred today by the senate judiciary committee to a sub-committee headed by Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska.

Wounds Fatal.

Meridian, Miss., September 23.—(Special.)—Mrs. Junie Scruggs, who died yesterday of wounds received when shot by a masked intruder a week ago, was buried this afternoon. Pneumonia developed a few days after the shooting. The unidentified burglar is still at liberty.

PEACOCK WILL PLEAD INSANITY AS DEFENSE

Driven Crazy by Wife's Actions, Says Torch Murderer.

White Plains, N. Y., September 23. (United News.)—The state rested its case against Earl Francis Peacock, 22-year-old slayer of his wife, late today. The defense then put eight witnesses on the stand for superficial evidence and court was adjourned until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, at which time defense Attorney Sydney A. Syme will cut loose with his fireworks.

Here's what the defense expects to show: That 20-year-old Dolly Peacock, dead and buried these five months, drove her young husband completely out of his mind by her philandering. That, anyway, Earl Peacock was a bit crazy to begin with.

And that Peacock, when he grabbed hold of Dolly's slim throat that night in the little Mount Vernon apartment, was not trying to kill his wife; he was just trying to stop her screaming, because he knew "dog-gone well that the neighbors would raise hell and squawk to the janitor next morning."

Mother on Stand.

But the grip Earl had on Dolly's throat squeezed the life from her, and he took her body out to Ardley road, where, under a blossoming apple tree, he burned it.

The state rested its case after District Attorney Coyne had read a long, detailed confession, made by Peacock in his presence.

Mrs. Adelaide Heinzelman, mother of the dead girl, resumed the stand when a request he (Syme) had made to see Frances Newman, state witness who was held in jail, last summer. Coyne wouldn't answer the questions and the court upheld him.

Syme started his insanity defense right off by calling John Peacock, uncle of the defendant, who explained that Earl's father had changed Peacock told about two members of the Peacock family having been inmates of insane asylums.

Confession Is Read.

Several character witnesses who testified that Peacock always was an upstanding, moral and honest young man, were called by the defense before court adjourned.

The stenographic report of the confession was read in full, relating the defendant's version of the slaying and reiterating his contention that the kill-

TWO, BEHIND BARS IN MYSTERY KILLING

North Carolina Girl's Body Found With Head Crushed.

Sanford, N. C., September 23.—(Special.)—Solution of the killing of Betty Spivey, 20, whose body was found near her home seven miles from here early yesterday with the head crushed by some blunt instrument, today held the attention of Lee county authorities.

James Spivey, 30, a cousin, who was her companion on Saturday night, and Bill Morgan, a close friend of Spivey's, were in the county jail, detained for questioning.

The girl left the home of her father, S. A. Spivey, late Saturday night with her cousin and apparently was slain about midnight, an ax apparently having been used. Her companion told officers what they said was a "vague" story, declaring that he and Betty had been attacked by a man who killed her.

Spivey was arrested and later released eight years ago in connection with the ax-murder of Mrs. Laura Waddell, a widow, near here. No one ever was convicted of the crime.

Relatives of Miss Spivey said her cousin often had proposed marriage to her.

New Marks Expected.

New Orleans, La., September 23.—(Special.)—New marks were expected to be set in registration of students this week at both Tulane and Loyola universities here. The college doors were thrown open today to receive the students for the 1929-30 term. Classes will be organized at Tulane tomorrow and at Tulane Wednesday.

ing was not wilful murder but entirely the outcome of a "family row."

"After I hid her body in the woods," it read, "I didn't know what to do. I still loved that girl. I got in my car and drove away, going for breakfast to the home of her mother."

"During the next week I thought a lot of her lying out there, it got on my mind. I got some kerosene and went back there and threw it over her body and lighted it. I did this so that she would not be found and so that her mother would never know to what a disgraceful end her daughter had come."

The defendant himself will go on the stand tomorrow to tell the story. To admit that his actions caused her death, but to deny that he ever meant to kill her.

She, slapped him, he said, on that afternoon night and in accordance with his plan of being the masterful husband, he slapped her back and when she swung a metal bookend at him he struck her with his pistol and then punched her in the face when she screamed. Still she screamed and then he grabbed her by the throat, placing one hand over her mouth.

Smith Presidential Rumors Dispelled by Jett Shouse In Blow at Cannon Cohorts

Announcement Aimed at Southerners Who Have Used Rumors To Further Party Dissension.

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

Washington, September 23.—Democratic leaders in the south, largely in Virginia, who have been seeking to prolong the revolt in the party by professing to believe that former Governor Alfred E. Smith is a candidate for further presidential honors, today had their hopes for raising such an issue blasted by a statement from Jett Shouse, chairman of the executive committee of the democratic national organization.

Taking cognizance of the sort of campaign that is being waged in Virginia by Bishop James Cannon, Jr., and others against the regular democratic gubernatorial nominee, Mr. Shouse has come forward with an open statement designed to lay at rest all rumors and reports as to Governor Smith's plans for 1932. He is authority for the statement that the former Empire State executive stands squarely on the declaration made shortly after the November elections, that he (Smith) will not be a candidate "for any public office" again.

Coalition Opposes Democrats. Of late the "announcements" in Virginia have made much of the cry that control of the democratic national committee was being maintained by Chairman John J. Raskob with a view of again nominating Smith in '32. It appears to have offered the chief basis for the candidacy of Professor William M. Brown, nominated for governor by a coalition of anti-Smith democrats and republicans in opposition to the regular democratic candidate, Professor John Carland Pollard.

Reports of another Smith candidacy two years hence have been more or less persistent recently. First there was the story that he was to keep actively in the political picture by taking a seat in the senate to be made vacant by Senator Royal Copeland, of New York, who was to resign for another job in New York city, opening the way for a Smith appointment by Governor Franklin Roosevelt.

Then at the democratic rally at Boston a few nights ago a former mayor of the city brought the crowd to its feet by declaring that Smith would be elected president in 1932.

There is also the new magazine which is being published in Washington under a banner reading "Smith for President in 1932."

Reports Exploited. All of these things have been exploited by the Old Dominion cleric and his anti-Smith associates in the campaign to defeat the democratic gubernatorial candidate in Virginia. The election comes off about six weeks hence and each new reference to the suggested Smith revival tended to stimulate the Cannonite hopes.

The denial of Mr. Shouse is scheduled to bring about a reaction in Virginia that may have an important bearing on the strength of the coalition ticket. While democratic readers here have not felt that Professor Pollard would be defeated, they regard the Shouse statement as timely in that it will tend to consolidate the position of the party in the south generally.

In issuing the denial Mr. Shouse took the position that Governor Smith necessarily could not be expected to take cognizance of every report and rumor which may have associated his name with the presidential nomination. For one thing, he explained that such a course would be extremely undignified. But coming from him thus, the denial is just as effective as though it had been delivered by the former governor, since he (Shouse) was personally selected for his present post by Chairman Raskob, who, in turn, was personally selected for the national committee chairmanship by Smith.

BLANCHE SWEET ALLEGES CRUELTY IN DIVORCE SUIT

Los Angeles, September 23.—(Special.)—Blanche Sweet, screen actress, today filed suit for divorce from her husband, Marshall A. "Mickey" Neilan, film director, listing more than 20 charges of cruelty.

In addition to charging the film director with neglecting her to associate with other women, Mrs. Neilan's complaint accused him of abusing her while he was intoxicated and of frequently declaring he hated her.

The complaint said a property settlement had been effected. There was no mention in the complaint of the divorce suit filed some time ago by Jim Tully, hobo-author in which Neilan was accused of undue associations with Mrs. Tully. After a reconciliation Tully's suit was withdrawn.

DUTY ON OILS AND JUTE IS URGED BY TALMADGE

Southern Farmers Forced To Sell in Unprotected Market, Official Says.

A prohibitive duty on jute to protect southern cotton growers and a tax on vegetable oils from the Philippine Islands were advocated Monday by Eugene Talmadge, state commissioner of agriculture, in a statement issued following a conference with farm and labor representatives.

"The farmers of the southeast are compelled to buy in a protected market and to sell their products in an unprotected market," Mr. Talmadge declared. "By this method they have been in competition with the naked and peon labor of the orient, China and India, where a few pennies a day are considered high wages. In America we know what wages are necessary for a man to live on."

Pointing out that the tariff bill is now pending before congress, and at present is up for action in the senate, Mr. Talmadge said that for the past 50 years the tariff bill has been increased on different items practically every session of congress. "For the past 10 years there has been a great deal of hysterical agitation in Georgia and other typically agricultural states about congress passing a farm relief bill," he said. "The only economical adjustment of conditions in this country is on account of the application of the tariff."

Conditions under the previous tariffs, where Georgia products were left unprotected, have caused the depopulation of thousands of farms in this state and have sent the farm boys and girls to the cities looking for some office job and the men from the farms to the cities looking for laboring jobs. Mr. Talmadge said: "This condition will grow worse unless the raw products of the Georgia farms and the raw products of the farms of the entire United States are protected in an equal measure with the manufactured products," he predicted.

COURT RULING HITS "FREE RIDE" AUTOS IN NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, September 23.—(AP)—While parties to the street car strike here today were awaiting word from William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and W. D. Mahon, president of the International Carriers' Union, which is expected to bring definite action on the strike, the state supreme court handed down a decision against the use of "free ride" jitneys which the union men are sponsoring.

The opinion rendered by Chief Justice Charles A. O'Neill nullified a recent writ issued by Judge Mark M. Boatner in civil district court restraining the police from arresting the drivers without a warrant or for probable cause.

The police who expected to the ruling of Judge Boatner and attacked the jurisdiction of a civil judge in seeking to enforce the enforcement of a penal statute were sustained by the high court.

The decision now permits the city authorities to proceed with the enforcement of the ordinance against jitneys, construed by City Attorney Bertrand L. Cahn to include the "gratis" automobile.

The suit was brought by Edward H. Mills, a driver, and 25 passengers. Mills claimed that he was conveying passengers at a salary of $100 a month paid by a labor organization and was not charging fares though accepting voluntary contributions.

EXPERT YEGGMEN SOUGHT IN BLOWING OF EGG CO. SAFE

Atlanta detectives Monday were attempting to track down the professional cracksmen who are believed to have pulled his third successful job with blowing of the safe of the Tennessee Egg Company, 189 Spring street, Sunday night, when approximately $300 was stolen. The safe robbery was discovered by T. H. Miller, a shipping clerk, when he came to work Monday morning.

Due to the experience of the work and peculiarities shown in opening the safe, police were prone to link the egg company robbery with two other safe blowing occurrences of the past fortnight.

According to police the method used in blowing the safe was to ignite by a time fuse a small amount of nitroglycerine that had been poured around the combination. The explosion was so carefully effected that only the lock was broken, without injuring any other portion of the safe, the police stated. Entrance to the building was gained through a window in the rear.

INJURED IN JUMP TO AVOID TRAIN, MAN ASKS $40,000

J. W. Westbrook Monday filed suit in Fulton superior court against the Louisville & Nashville railroad, asking $40,000 damages.

In his petition, Westbrook alleges that on July 1, while in the employ of the Western Union Telegraph Company, he was directed to do some work on the railroad's right-of-way in Alabama and was furnished a motor car to run over the tracks. He alleges that while he had the car on a freight train came along and that he jumped into the motor car and attempted to beat the freight train to a siding. He failed, his petition asserts, and he alleges he was forced to jump down an embankment. He alleges he received injuries which will prove permanent.

Funeral Rites Are Held For Nat Harris, Adopted Georgian, Ex-Governor

Last Services for Beloved Statesman Are Attended by Hundreds in Drizzling Rain.

Macon, Ga., September 23.—(AP)—Full military honors as well as Masonic honors were paid today in final tribute to former Governor Nat E. Harris, whose funeral took place at 4 o'clock this afternoon at Mulberry Street Methodist church. The church was filled to capacity by men and women who are prominent in the affairs of the state.

The church service was simple, a short tribute being paid by Dr. C. R. Jenkins, pastor.

"He whose body lies before us and whose spirit has gone home to his God has been a brave man," said Dr. Jenkins, "and I have heard one who knew him for 25 years say that he never heard one unkind, harsh word fall from his lips. He was a man of utmost devotion."

The altar and choir loft were hidden in banks of flowers. A huge cross of roses, dahlias, carnations and smaller flowers, sent by Georgia School of Technology, which he founded, was the decorative focal point. Four flags of the Confederacy, for which Governor Harris fought for four years during the war between the states, were draped from the organ pipes and the altar.

The choir was completely hidden by red and white flowers. The choir sang "There Is Rest for the Weary" as the casket, draped with a Confederate flag and surrounded by bouquets of lilies, was carried to the altar.

War Veterans. Directly behind the casket were the veterans of the war between the states and following these were members of the American Legion and members of the Bar association and noted visitors, and members of the former governor's family.

The 121st Infantry band, headed by a police band, led the way from the church to Rose Hill cemetery.

Friends assembled about the terraces surrounding the grave where also was a national guard company commanded by Captain D. C. Harris, Macon, Lodge No. 5 F. & A. M. had charge of the burial service.

Three volleys were fired by the national guardsmen, T. C. Wesley, chief bugler at Georgia Tech, sounded taps from a terrace at the head of the grave.

About 200 floral pieces from organizations and individuals in many states were received for the funeral.

Died at Hampton. Governor Harris died at Hampton, Tenn., Saturday after an extended illness, death being hastened by his advanced age of 84 years. He had returned to Tennessee, the state of his birth, some time previously. The body arrived here late last night. It was met by high officials of the state, prominent educators and intimate friends of the former governor, several of whom served as pallbearers.

The funeral today came on the opening day of Georgia Tech's fourth scholastic year. While still a young man tending a Georgia farm, Governor Harris dreamed of an institution of higher learning for the state such as was developed at Georgia Tech. When he was elected to the general assembly he introduced a bill providing for founding of the school in Atlanta, and his dream was realized in 1888 when the act was passed. He was actively connected with the college from its beginning, being chairman of the board of trustees at his death.

During his years of added success after he was tendered the highest office in the gift of the people of Georgia, which was his adopted state, he continued to take a leading part in all affairs of Tech. Several officials and professors of the institution were here today to pay their last respects. It was announced from Atlanta that the college would honor him with special exercises.

The former governor moved to this state shortly after the War Between the States. Eminent with his Tennessee neighbors, who did not sympathize with his convictions as a southerner, caused him to move. He rented a house in Atlanta and commenced the struggle of readjustment which was rewarded with the governor's chair.

CAPITOL OFFICES CLOSED HERE. Offices in the state capitol were closed at noon Monday in respect to Nathaniel E. Harris, former governor of Georgia, who died Saturday at his home in Tennessee. In a proclamation issued by Governor L. G. Hardman, it was ordered that the flags on the state capitol and other state buildings be lowered and flown at half-mast for 30 days.

Governor Hardman appointed former Governors Hoke Smith, Joseph E. Brown, John M. Slaton, Hugh Dorsey, Thomas W. Hardwick and Clifford Walker, members of the supreme court and court of appeals, heads of state departments, the chancellor of the University of Georgia, the president of Georgia Tech, the president of the University of Georgia and Tech as an escort of honor to attend the funeral of Ex-Governor Harris at the Mulberry Street Methodist church, Macon, Monday afternoon.

Proud Record. The proclamation said that Governor Harris was privileged to live a long life of usefulness. "His record from young manhood, as a private citizen, as a soldier of the Confederacy, and as a public officer, is one to which every Georgian can point with pride."

Governor Hardman said, "Governor Harris served the south as a soldier the full four years of conflict. No man ever fought more bravely and gallantly. He carried the cause of the south in his bosom until the end."

"In public life of our commonwealth, Governor Harris consecrated his best years for our progress and development," Governor Hardman said. "His work for the cause of education was crowned with the establishment of the Georgia School of Technology. He was the author of this act of the legislature, and served as chairman of the board of trustees from its creation until his death. While governor, he sought and obtained passage of much constructive legislation which has been of vast benefit to our people. His entire public career was one of high and noble consecration and devotion to the public good. Every citizen of Georgia will mourn his passing."

Students and faculty members of the Georgia School of Technology paid tribute Monday to the late Governor Harris, who was regarded as the founder and father of the educational institution. Classes were adjourned at noon and the campus flag flown at half-mast.

A message from Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of the school, was read by instructors to the students in the morning, relating the life and work of Governor Harris, whose efforts in the state legislature resulted in establishment of the institution, and whose name appears on diplomas of graduates from its beginning.

Representatives from various departments of the school attended the funeral services and interment in Macon. Among these were Dr. Brittain, Professors J. E. McDaniel, George Sparks and J. W. Jeffries, of the faculty; Captain Robinson and Commander Jones, representing the military and naval departments, and P. C. Wesley, representing the student body.

First meeting of the Atlantic-Gulf canal commission appointed by the state legislature to induce the federal government to construct an inland waterway which will run through the Okefenokee swamp has been set for Saturday at the Sea Island Yacht Club at Brunswick. The meeting was announced Monday by Lee Worsham, temporary chairman of the commission.

He stated that he was in receipt of a telegram from Howard Coffin, signifying his willingness to serve on the body and to do everything in his power to push the project. With a single exception, all of the members have agreed to be present for this initial meeting.

Suggestion of a canal to connect the Gulf of Mexico and the Atlantic ocean came originally from George Washington, it is stated, and the project has been under discussion for more than 100 years. The last state legislature appointed a commission to study the plan and to use all possible influence with the federal government to undertake the project.

Since the legislature adjourned, investigations have been started and the meeting Saturday will mark the first step in the active campaign to have the construction begun.

Those expected to attend are Howard E. Coffin, Cecil Neill, of Columbia; Guy Woolford, of Atlanta; J. T. Colson, of Brunswick; S. M. Turner, of Quitman; Seward Smith, of Atlanta; Murray W. Garson, of New York; R. B. Russell, Jr., of Windsor; Mrs. S. C. Townsend, of St. Mary's; M. O. Dunning, of Savannah; Charles S. Barrett, of Union City; Judge

RUM-LADEN AUTO SEIZED WHEN CAR FALLS OVER BANK

Stories of an exciting chase of a pair of whisky-laden automobiles, one turning over in the race and the other making a temporary get-away, with no tires on the rear wheels, only to be captured later after a new pair had been punctured with bullets, were related in United States commissioner's court Monday afternoon at the hearing of G. W. St. Johns, who gave his address as 252 Sydney street.

He was placed under bond of $2,000, charged with violating the prohibition laws, agents testifying that the captured cars, which contained more than 150 gallons of whisky, were both registered in his name.

The chase started in Rockdale county, near Conners, according to the testimony at the hearing, and continued on into Fulton county. Agents were waiting for the cars, having received information that they were due. One appeared, refused to stop, and then tumbled over an embankment minus a rear tire.

While searching this, it was stated, another came along and refused to halt on signal. A prohibition agent jumped on the running board but was scraped off against a bank. Both rear tires were shot off the second car but it continued on its way rejoicing, only to be over taken later and captured when the rear tires were again shot off. All occupants made good their escape and the defendant was not arrested until Monday afternoon. He denied all knowledge of the incident.

PROPOSED CHANGES IN ZONING LAWS GIVEN APPROVAL

Several changes in Atlanta's zoning ordinances were recommended Monday by the zoning commission at a meeting held in Mayor L. N. Ragsdale's suite at the Atlanta city hall. At the meeting letters from Mr. Ragsdale reappointing the commission were distributed.

Only one of the papers was turned down by the commission and that was a proposal to change from a dwelling house zone to apartment zone the south side of Twenty-sixth street, known as lot No. 4, block No. 624.

Approved changes follow: From apartment house to business, the northwest corner of Moreland avenue and Semihale avenue; Ponce de Leon avenue and Argonne avenue for a depth of 100 feet; Fourteenth and Williams streets for a frontage of 40 feet on Williams.

From dwelling house to business, DeKalb and Southerland drive for 30-foot frontage.

Members of the planning commission who were re-appointed by Mr. Ragsdale to obviate any question as to their eligibility to serve because of recent zoning measures enacted by the Georgia legislature, are Charles Wickersham, chairman; Mrs. Joe P. Billups, vice chairman; J. Houston Johnson, W. S. Featherstone, Claude L. Barnwell and J. R. Nutting.

TOBACCO DEALERS PLAN PERMANENT ASSOCIATION HERE

Plans for a mass meeting of Atlanta tobacco dealers to be held at 8 o'clock Thursday night at the Chamber of Commerce are being formulated, it was learned Monday. The mass meeting is for the purpose of organizing a permanent association among men who retail cigars and cigarettes to local smokers.

The movement to organize is seen as the outgrowth of recent gatherings of the tobaccoists to discuss the increasingly stringent regulations that have been placed upon them through legislative measures. The mass meeting is a direct sequence to the preliminary organization meeting held Monday at which time C. D. Harris was elected president; Harry N. Saye, vice president; S. M. Hirsch, secretary, and A. S. Schwartz, treasurer.

When completed, the association of cigar men is to be affiliated with the Atlanta Retail Merchants' Association.

Newspaper Advertising Is Lauded in Address To Hoover Salesmen

Newspaper advertising is the surest and most economical way of getting a business message to the general public, A. L. DeMuey, advertising director of the Hoover Company, told their southeastern salesmen at their Maximilian convention at the Atlanta Biltmore Monday. He added that his company is the largest user of newspaper advertising space of any of the firms manufacturing mechanical cleaning devices.

The convention, which was attended by Hoover company salesmen from all parts of the southeastern territory, is the seventh meeting of its kind to be held in the eastern portion of the United States, marking a departure from the former custom of the Hoover company in holding their sales meetings at the factory.

In addition to the talk on advertising, addresses were made by a number of factory executives, including a constructive address on canvassing by M. L. Pierce and a stereoscopic trip through the Hoover factory by D. P. Hoover.

In his address on canvassing, Mr. Pierce stated that a great change has come about in the reception of house-to-house salesmen due to the high type of personnel engaged in this type of merchandising.

The convention closed Monday evening with a banquet.

League of Nations Defers Seeking Close Relationship With International Bank

Adoption of Norwegian Idea Would Be Dangerous To Establishing Institution, Spokesman Says.

Geneva, September 23.—(AP)—The League of Nations will not seek, for the present, to establish a close relationship between itself and the international reparations bank provided by the Young plan.

This became clear today when a resolution envisaging the establishment of a committee to deal with economic questions.

But its authors, Norway and Denmark, in withdrawing are believed to have gained part of their purpose. Their move was interpreted in some quarters as a signal by the countries not concerned directly with reparations payments that they will not be greatly pleased if the proposed bank seeks to assume too dominant a function in the economic life of Europe.

The solid imposition of the bank's furthering reparations discouraged further agitation of the proposal.

Dangerous to Plans.

Speaking for France, Great Britain, Belgium, Italy and Japan, Louis Lecheur, French cabinet minister, declared that adoption of the Norwegian idea would be dangerous to the chances for organizing the bank. It was suggested by some observers that M. Lecheur might also be representing influential sentiment in the United States.

He said the situation of the bank already was complicated, and the effort of the league to take a hand in the organization and operation might be disastrous. Previously, he had warned his hearers that such a move might alienate the cooperation of "a great country not represented here," which was taken to mean the United States.

But the minutes of the committee's discussion on the subject of the bank will be communicated to the financial experts who will meet to organize the institution.

Advocates of a close connection between the league and the bank were anxious that this be done, and M. Lecheur solved the delicate problem of procedure by promising to convey the minutes to the French experts.

Oppose Haste.

Vigorous protests against unseemly haste were made in the disarmament committee by Lord Cecil of England, and Sir George Foster, of Canada.

As a result, final debate in the assembly on the position of the preparatory disarmament commission's work was postponed until tomorrow. The British views on taking up the question of limitation of land forces and materials may further be aired when the disarmament committee's report is presented tomorrow.

The labor government of England already has made clear its purpose of pressing for limitation of military resources at every suitable opportunity despite French insistence that this question had been eliminated in preparing the basis for a general disarmament convention.

The assembly in two plenary sessions approved a number of committee reports and fixed the next assembly meeting date for September 10, 1931.

CITRUS SHIPMENTS REPORTED HEAVY DESPITE FRUIT FLY

Orlando, Fla., September 23.—(AP)—Shipments of 1929 Florida citrus fruits to date have shown that the crop is showing greater maturity at this time than is generally expected, according to figures given out at Mediterranean fruit fly eradication headquarters here today.

During the week ending Saturday September 21, a total of 146 carloads of grapefruit were shipped out of Florida. Manatee county shipped 63; Dade 34; Lee 25; Pinellas 10; Highlands 5; Pasco 3 and DeSoto and Polk counties 1 carload each.

This brought total grapefruit shipments from September 1 to 21 inclusive to 260 carloads, which was believed to be a record. No more fruit moved up to Saturday, but shipments of the parson brown variety of the fruit are expected to make shortly.

British Dirigibles Complete Failure, Newspaper Charges

London, September 24.—(Tuesday.)—(AP)—The Mail today says that Britain's great new dirigibles, the R-100 and the R-101, are failures and, from the point of view of learning from them the commercial lessons originally intended, are practically obsolete before they have left the construction sheds.

The newspaper in support of these statements quotes details given in a forthcoming number of the technical journal, The Engineer.

The Engineer is quoted as saying that the R-101 will be underpowered, deficient in speed and unable to carry the 100 passengers for whom accommodations have been provided. The R-100 should be faster than her sister ship but it was contended will still not be fast enough or powerful enough for regular year-round flying over North Atlantic routes to Canada where it was intended to employ her after trials. The ships have cost $10,000,000.

A Message to Underweight Men and Women

The one supremely good health building tonic that is also the one great weight producer known to modern science the country over is McCoy's Tablets.

They build flesh where flesh is needed—sunken cheeks, neck and chest—and many a man and woman, skinny and scrawny, have thanked McCoy's after a few weeks' treatment for the decided improvement in looks and figure.

Many times the increase in weight is astonishing—one exceedingly thin woman gained 10 pounds in 22 days. McCoy's takes all the risk.—Read this ironclad guarantee. If after taking 4 sixty cent boxes of McCoy's Tablets or 2 One Dollar boxes any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least 5 pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health—Jacobs' Pharmacies or your druggist is authorized to return the purchase price.—(adv.)

WOMAN ACCUSED OF KILLING MATE RELEASED ON BOND

Little Rock, Ark., September 23.—(AP)—Mrs. Norma Osborne, of Cord, Ark., charged with first degree murder in connection with the slaying of her young husband, Morris Osborne, a merchant, in their home several months ago, was ordered released under bond of $7,500 by the state supreme court today.

She is held in the county jail here, having been removed from the Batesville jail a week ago for an unannounced reason. The case reached the supreme court on a petition for a writ of certiorari.

Mrs. Osborne has steadfastly denied knowledge as to the shooting of Osborne, in connection with which J. P. Barber, 24, former Batesville high school basketball star, has been sought since the night of the crime. Osborne was shot to death in the kitchen of their home. Mrs. Osborne said she was in another room and fainted when she heard the shot.

MASKED BANDIT ESCAPES WITH $727 IN CASH

Jackson, Miss., September 23.—(AP)—A lone masked bandit held up two employees of the Mississippi Power and Light Company at the local car barn today and escaped with $727.21 of the Sunday receipts, police said.

The robber entered the company's office while the receipts were being counted and forced the employees to turn the money over to him at the point of a pistol.

Advocates of a close connection between the league and the bank were anxious that this be done, and M. Lecheur solved the delicate problem of procedure by promising to convey the minutes to the French experts.

British Dirigibles Complete Failure, Newspaper Charges

London, September 24.—(Tuesday.)—(AP)—The Mail today says that Britain's great new dirigibles, the R-100 and the R-101, are failures and, from the point of view of learning from them the commercial lessons originally intended, are practically obsolete before they have left the construction sheds.

The newspaper in support of these statements quotes details given in a forthcoming number of the technical journal, The Engineer.

The Engineer is quoted as saying that the R-101 will be underpowered, deficient in speed and unable to carry the 100 passengers for whom accommodations have been provided. The R-100 should be faster than her sister ship but it was contended will still not be fast enough or powerful enough for regular year-round flying over North Atlantic routes to Canada where it was intended to employ her after trials. The ships have cost $10,000,000.

LEGION HOSTS GATHER FOR LOUISVILLE MEET

Staffs Arrive in Private Car for Eleventh National Convention.

Louisville, Ky., September 23.—(AP)—National headquarters of the American Legion and the Legion Auxiliary moved to Louisville tonight and established offices in preparation for the gathering of World War veterans for the Legion's eleventh national convention next week.

James F. Bartow, national adjutant of the Legion, and Mrs. Gwendolyn Wiggins MacDowell, the auxiliary's national secretary, accompanied by their staffs, came in a special car from Indianapolis, the Legion's permanent headquarters.

Establishment of headquarters marked the official beginning of pre-convention activities, but little remained to be done in the way of preparing for the entertainment of the expected 100,000 veterans. Weeks of preparatory work lay behind the local committees.

Coincident with the establishment of headquarters, announcement was made that approximately a mile and a half of downtown streets, including Fourth and theater thoroughfare, will be kept clear of vehicular traffic during the four-day convention which opens September 30.

The Legionnaires will have these streets in which to walk, run, dance, stage impromptu parades and otherwise enjoy the freedom of the city.

The first delegates to the convention to arrive here came in six hours ahead of the national staff. They were five men from Massachusetts, headed by Dennis H. Haverly, state adjutant. Headquarters was established in a downtown hotel, from which to conduct the campaign to take the 1930 meeting to Boston. Haverly said 1,500 more Legionnaires will follow from the Bay State. The principal rival of Boston for the convention is Los Angeles, which is expected to send a big delegation.

LOUIS MARSHALL IS PAID TRIBUTE BY JEWS, GENTILES

New York, September 23.—(AP)—Jew and Gentile paid tribute to Louis Marshall today when the body of the aged leader of American Jewry was brought home from Zurich, Switzerland.

Met at the pier by Mayor Walker, Police Commissioner Whalen and representatives of various Jewish organizations, a squadron of motorcycle police escorted the hearse to the Temple Emanuel where Mr. Marshall was president of the congregation.

Only a plain, wooden coffin, draped with an American flag, held the body. Its lid was not opened, but thousands of friends and followers of the late leader and philanthropist filed past his bier. Extra police were called to direct the large crowd of mourners.

Mr. Marshall died September 11. He had gone to Switzerland to attend a conference which resulted in the establishment of the new Jewish League for Palestine, through which it is hoped to unite world Jewry. Zionist and non-Zionist, in carrying out the Jewish plan in Palestine.

FLORIDA 'JACK KILLER' STILL UNIDENTIFIED

Jacksonville Officers Push Investigation But Refuse Information.

Jacksonville, Fla., September 23.—(AP)—Identity of Jacksonville's automobile jack killer who early Saturday battered to death Curtis S. Smith, local business man, remained unknown tonight, as police officials routed their investigation of the case along lines which they declined to describe.

R. H. Wynn, 30 year old insurance solicitor and brother-in-law of the dead man, was still under arrest on a general charge of suspicion today, although the activities of police in checking their "under cover" clues in the case prevented further questioning of the suspect.

Smith's body was found early Saturday in a clump of bushes in a residential district here. The head and face had been battered, apparently with a bloodstained automobile jack which was found close to the body and in the vicinity of a trail of blood which led to the body from a nearby street.

Wynn, arrested shortly after Smith's body was identified, later admitted that he had been with Smith during the night. In searching for liquor, he told police, he had left Smith in his car while he went to a nearby station for gasoline. When he returned, he said, he found Smith's battered body lying beside the bloodstained automobile, with the jack beside it. He feared implication with the crime, Wynn said, and dragged the body into the bushes. Later he told police, he had washed his clothing and used a gasoline-soaked rag in an attempt to remove blood stains from the automobile.

Police reported that Wynn had insured Smith's life for $2,000 with himself as beneficiary, in addition to

THREE KILLED WHEN PLANE FALLS IN LAKE

Winnipeg, Man., September 23.—(AP)—Three men were killed when a Western Canada Airways plane fell into Lake Manitoba, 120 miles north of Winnipeg, yesterday, said a statement today by J. A. MacDougall, treasurer of the Western Canada Airways. The dead, said the report, are: George McKee, Toronto, pilot; Arthur Reoch, Winnipeg, engineer; Arthur Hunt Chute, New York, novelist.

The first new element in the case came after Deputy Sheriff Reese Bowman, last witness of the day, had testified it was necessary to break down the door of Mrs. Stone's home to arrest her. Suddenly the prosecutor asked about letters from Mrs. Stone to Paul Jones, soldier stationed at Aberdeen Proving Grounds, intercepted when she tried to send them out of the county jail by trustees.

The jury was excused while lawyers debated admission of the letters. Judge Alton Preston refused to let the jurors see one of the letters, fearing to poison their minds by expressions which he said might "tend to show a dissolute character." In the other Mrs. Stone had written, which Judge Preston said might be admitted, she told her lawyer she did not expect to "get out of this" and the attorney had upbraided her for such sentiments.

MOTHER GOES ON TRIAL FOR MURDER OF SON

Loved Pleasures More Than Child, Prosecution Alleges.

Belair, Md., September 23.—(AP)—A picture of a mother "who didn't love her boy as much as she did the pleasures of life" was set up by the prosecution and was decided by the defense in circuit court here today.

Calling for a first degree murder verdict against Mrs. Hattie Stone, 40, Havre de Grace widow, accused of poisoning her son, George, 15, State's Attorney W. Worthington Hopkins said "she was the kind of woman who wanted to be running around all the time with the men and found George in the way."

Answering the state's opening, Attorney Harold E. Coburn stressed the mother's love for her son and retorted that all the state had for its case was that the boy had died of poison and that at the time of his death the mother was in "poor circumstances." He referred to the prosecution charge that George Stone was murdered for bank funds inherited from his father and insurance on the son's life, after Mrs. Stone had "run through" the money she received upon her husband's death a year and a half earlier.

Before the day's sessions ended four of the state witnesses ended their testimony from the instruction which King David gave Solomon when Solomon was a boy.

Dr. Lovein preached Monday night on "Winning the World for Christ," emphasizing that the church was not founded as a "resting place for saints on the way to heaven" but as a training school for sinners who want to learn the way to righteousness. He urged the need for a warmer welcome for newcomers into the church as the way to make evangelistic converts remain converted.

The first new element in the case came after Deputy Sheriff Reese Bowman, last witness of the day, had testified it was necessary to break down the door of Mrs. Stone's home to arrest her. METHODISTS HOLD GROUP MEETING IN SOUTH ATLANTA

The first of a series of meetings of the various groups of the 30 churches composing the South Atlanta district of the Methodist church was held Monday night at Nellie Dodd church.

The South Atlanta district, of which Dr. John S. Jenkins is presiding elder, is divided into four groups. The group meetings being held are in the nature of loyalty meetings to stimulate interest in closing the conference reports, soon to be made.

Dr. O. G. Kelley, lay leader of Nellie Dodd church, John W. Hardwick, district lay leader, R. L. Ramsey, assistant district lay leader, and the Rev. Marvin Franklin, pastor of St. Luke's and East End church composed one group. The group meetings will be continued through Friday night.

Another group meeting is to be held tonight at Kirkwood church, which, with Martha Brown Memorial church, St. Luke's and East End church compose one group. The group meetings will be continued through Friday night.

A special service for fathers and sons will be conducted at Wesley Memorial church at 7:30 o'clock tonight by the Rev. Norman Lovein, who is holding revival services there nightly this week.

The evangelist will speak on "What I Want My Boy to Be," taking his text from the instruction which King David gave Solomon when Solomon was a boy.

Dr. Lovein preached Monday night on "Winning the World for Christ," emphasizing that the church was not founded as a "resting place for saints on the way to heaven" but as a training school for sinners who want to learn the way to righteousness. He urged the need for a warmer welcome for newcomers into the church as the way to make evangelistic converts remain converted.

The first new element in the case came after Deputy Sheriff Reese Bowman, last witness of the day, had testified it was necessary to break down the door of Mrs. Stone's home to arrest her. Suddenly the prosecutor asked about letters from Mrs. Stone to Paul Jones, soldier stationed at Aberdeen Proving Grounds, intercepted when she tried to send them out of the county jail by trustees.

Commissioner of Finance Alleges Companies Seek To Cut Out State's Reduction.

Nashville, Tenn., September 23.—(P)—Charges made by Charles M. McCabe, commissioner of finance and taxation, that certain Tennessee oil dealers had reached an agreement to force upward the price of gasoline purchased by the state were denied in a statement issued later in the day at Memphis by Carl L. Willis, Standard Oil Company official.

McCabe said the state is at present buying gasoline at 2 cents under standard wagon prices, and that the oil companies have announced that they will not allow this 2 cents reduction, which will mean an increased cost to the state of about $150,000 a year.

A code of ethics adopted recently at a meeting of the Tennessee Oil Men's Association at Nashville did not embody a "combination to standardize prices," Willis, manager of the Standard Oil Company for Tennessee, declared. "There was no discussion of prices or any kind of combination to arrange prices," Willis continued. "The 250 oil men at the meeting discussed only the code of ethics recently approved by the federal trade commission and formally adopted the code."

Willis said the code was planned to tend toward the abolition of so-called "cut throat" competition between oil companies and carries no mention of prices on any motor oil. He said L. D. Smith, state attorney-general, attended the meeting. McCabe's statement was that he was "reliably informed that at a meeting of the oil dealers in Tennessee held in Nashville about September 1, a code of ethics was adopted by agreement, under which the various oil dealers announced they would follow the prices made by the Standard Oil Company."

He further stated that he had "sent out telegrams to all the companies we buy gasoline from, and told them we would not pay the increased price." McCabe said he had received a number of answers and that many of them said they would not continue the old rate.

"I have no objection to anyone making a fair profit on goods sold to the state," McCabe said, "but when I find that parties are getting together on prices by making a combination to charge the higher price, I will by my best to break up such a practice."

"I have asked Attorney-General Smith for an opinion as to whether or not this agreement is a combination to fix prices, and whether some legal steps may be taken to prevent its being carried out."

McCabe said that rather than pay

PAPER COMPANY HEAD TO TESTIFY IN TRIAL

Graustein To Be Heard at Macon in Hall-Lavarre Litigation.

Macon, Ga., September 23.—(P)—Counsel for Harold Hall in the Hall-Lavarre newspaper suit which resumes in federal court here tomorrow confirmed reports tonight that A. R. Graustein, president of the International Paper and Power Company, was expected to appear as a witness.

"We are expecting Mr. Graustein here for the trial," said George S. Jones, one of the Hall counsel, "and the probability is that he will appear in rebuttal."

When the last recess was taken in the case, William Lavarre was testifying in his own defense. Hall sued Lavarre for equal operating control of four southeastern newspapers bought with approximately $870,000 furnished by the International Paper Company, a subsidiary of the International Paper and Power Company. These four newspapers were: The Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle, The Columbia (S. C.) Record, and The Spartanburg (S. C.) Herald and Journal.

Suit was brought in Richmond superior court at Augusta, Ga., and transferred to federal court here by agreement. Lavarre then answered that Hall was an employee, and testimony began on August 22. Two interruptions of a week's duration each have occurred, due to the absence of Judge Bascom S. Deaver. Lavarre was to have resumed the stand today, but recess was taken in honor of the memory of the late Nathaniel E. Harris, Georgia educator whose funeral was held here today.

Graustein appeared on April 30 as a witness before the federal trade commission at Washington and related that interest of the International Paper Company in newspapers. Frequently his testimony at that hearing has entered into the present case.

MANNING YEOMANS TO ATTEND PEACH MEETING IN MACON

"I have conferred with the governor and Commissioner Baker, of the highway department, and Commissioner Baker is now making an investigation with a view of the state putting in its own distributing stations," the statement said.

Sun To Return To City Today, Forecast Says

All indications to the contrary notwithstanding, the sun has not completely deserted Atlanta and in fact should be back on the job this afternoon, according to the forecast of C.

F. von Herrmann, local meteorologist who states that a clearing up process will be under way by this morning and should be nearly completed by nightfall.

The temperature is expected to be of the "slightly warmer" variety but is scheduled to remain cool. Monday produced some real wintry-like weather when the mercury came to a dead stop at the 65-degree mark after starting at 59. Today's range is expected to be from slightly over 60 to slightly over 70.

ALVIN YORK SCHOOL WILL OPEN MONDAY; MONEY PROVIDED

Clarksville, Tenn., September 23.—(P)—The state board of education, meeting here today, construed an opinion by Attorney-General L. D. Smith as making possible the opening next Monday of the York Agricultural Institute at Jamestown, founded as a memorial to Tennessee's famous soldier, Sergeant Alvin C. York.

The school did not open its fall term on time, due to a controversy over finances, and the attorney-general was asked an opinion on the question of whether the state or county is obligated to pay the school's operating expenses.

The board construed General Smith's opinion as holding that out of the 60-cent levy for high school purposes in Fentress county, the average per capita cost could be divided among the York school and the other high schools of the county.

BRITISH LEAVE RHINE AMID FRIENDLY CHEERS

Victors and Vanquished Alike Find Parting Sad.

Koenigsberg, Germany, September 23.—(P)—The evacuation by the second battalion of the Leicestershire regiment, the first complete British unit to leave the Rhineland, today brought stirring farewell scenes.

Practically the entire population turned out in the drenching downpour of rain to wish the soldiers Godspeed. The 400 men and dozens of officers were soaked to their skins when they were entrained, but the "Tommys" cheerfully doffed their jackets and waved their dripping garments in farewell.

Thousands of Germans under the sea of umbrellas joined in singing British popular songs played by the regimental band.

As the special train left the Germans lifted a rousing chorus of "Auld Lang Syne." The train made a triumphal progress through the Rhineland, being greeted at every station and crossing by huge crowds of Germans waving as to departing friends.

The Union Jack will be hoisted down here for the last time Friday. The second Dorsetshire regiment, leaving Bad Schwaben as a unit tomorrow, is the next big troop movement, with the evacuation of Wiesbaden to follow on October 4.

Nine - Minute Session Is Held By U. S. House

Washington, September 23.—(P)—Convening after an all-summer recess, the house today held a nine-minute session and recessed until Thursday without transacting any business.

William Tyler Page, clerk of the house, called the body together and read a letter from Speaker Longworth, now at his home in Cincinnati, designing Representative Simmons, republican, Nebraska, as speaker pro tem.

Sixty-five of the 435 members were present. A prayer and the reading of the journal was all that was done at the session, one of the shortest in recent history.

Some time ago Longworth advised the members by letter that because of the status of the tariff legislation in the senate, the house would not undertake transaction of business until about the middle of October.

AIRWAYS PRESIDENT COMMITS SUICIDE

E. B. Redline, Prominent Louisiana, Believed Shot in His Accounts.

Shreveport, La., September 23.—(P)—E. B. Redline, 33, president of the Shreveport Airways, Inc., committed suicide today by shooting himself in the head with a pistol.

Major Redline shot himself near a railway bridge spanning Cross bayou where the bayou enters Red river in Shreveport. A negro woman heard the shot and going to investigate, found him still alive but unconscious. Dr. Willis P. Butler, parish coroner, held that Major Redline committed suicide.

He died shortly after police arrived. Though he left no note explaining the act, W. K. Henderson, president of the Henderson Iron Works and Supply Company, in which concern Major Redline served as vice president, said some irregularities had been discovered in Mr. Redline's books and a complete audit was planned.

Major Redline was a member of the official staff of Governor Huey P. Long and was one of the pioneer promoters of aviation in Shreveport and one of the backers of the recent K. W. K. H. endurance flight here. Several months ago he organized the Shreveport Airways, Inc., which was a flying field on the Greenwood road. He was chairman last year of the airways committee of the Louisiana department of the American Legion and a member of the executive committee of the Lowe McFarlane post of the legion. He served in the aviation branch of the United States during the World War. His widow survives.

CANNON'S BROKER AGAIN INDICTED ON FRAUD CHARGE

New York, September 23.—(P)—Harry Goldhurst, through whom Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, formerly bought and sold stocks, today was indicted for the second time in three months on a charge of using the mails to defraud.

The indictment, returned by a federal grand jury, also named Goldhurst's sister, Matilda Goldhurst; William Collins, David Levy and an unnamed German now living in Germany.

The indictment charged that through the Cosmopolitan Fiscal Corporation the defendants sold but never delivered stock of Ford of England, Germany, France, Italy and Spain. Anyone Can Qualify

Any man, woman, boy or girl, resident of Georgia or adjoining states, who is not an employee of The Atlanta Constitution, or a member of an employee's family, may submit an answer. When you have made your selection of the twins, send in your answer.

The whole family may co-operate in this competition, but only one prize will be awarded a member of a family, or any one of a group outside of the family where two or more have been working together for a prize in any one prize group; but one person may win one prize in each of the three prize groups and also have a chance of winning the $1,500.00 automobile for promptness. This contest is conducted by The Atlanta Constitution.

This is one of the greatest arrays of cash prizes that has ever been offered in an Atlanta Constitution puzzle contest.

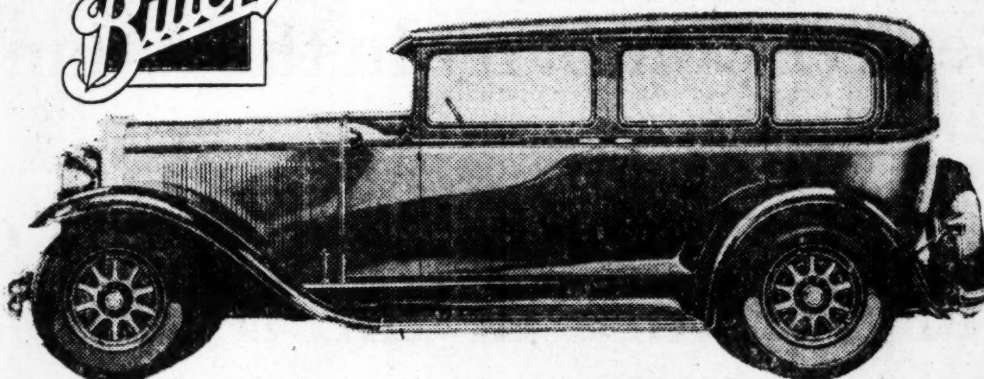

Prize group 3 has ten cash prizes, first prize $500.00. Prize group 2 has ten cash prizes, first prize $1,000.00. Prize group 1 has ten cash prizes, first prize $2,500.00.

No, they are not all Twins! Two and only two are identical, and are the Twins you are asked to find. Can you? To be sure, the 18 pictures all look alike; but look closer. How about their hats? They are not all clothed the same. Many young ladies look alike, and the 18 on this page look like each other, but the Twins are dressed exactly the same, like all real twins. Read the clues.

It takes real care and cleverness to point out the difference and find the two real Twins, because two and only two are identical the same.

OUR CLUB—By Seckatary Hawkins

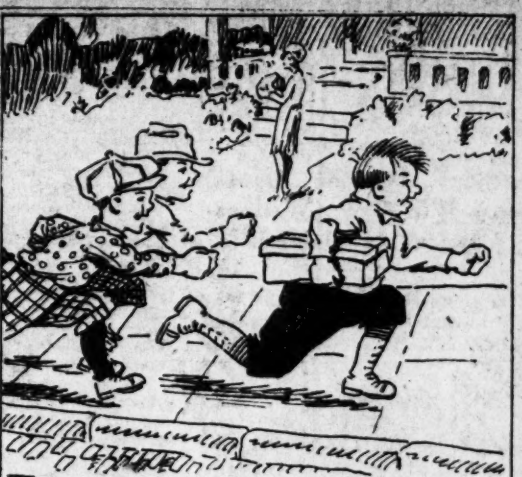

AFTER THE NEW PELHAM FELLOW TOLD US THAT THE BIRD THAT DIED IN OUR CLUBHOUSE WAS A RAVEN, AND NOT A COMMON OLD CROW, WE WERE TOO STUNNED TO MOVE UNTIL THE WHOLE CROWD OF PELHAMS HAD GONE.

WHEN I YELLED, "A RAVEN, A RAVEN, FELLOWS," AS THOUGH THEY THOUGHT I HAD GONE CRAZY, "WELL," SAID BILL DABBY, "ALL RIGHT, IT'S A FINE BLACK RAVEN! WHAT ABOUT IT?"

SAID, "WE'LL PAY THAT FELLOW A DOLLAR FOR IT, BECAUSE IT'S WORTH MORE THAN THAT OLD JUDGE GRANBERY WILL BE GLAD TO BUY IT." JERRY AND I PADDED ACROSS THE RIVER AND GAVE THE NEW PELHAM A DOLLAR.

HE GRINNED AND SAID HE WAS SATISFIED, AND THAT WE WOULDN'T HAVE ANY MORE TROUBLE. WHEN WE GOT BACK, WE DUG UP THE RAVEN THAT WE HAD BURIED IN A BOX AND TOOK IT UP TO DOC WATERS. Sock

George Leads Successful Fight Against Tariff Bill; Forces Ten Amendments

Penalties for Opium Smuggling Made More Severe Against Owners of Offending Vessels.

BY D. HAROLD OLIVER, Associated Press Staff Writer.

Washington, September 23.—(AP)—The senate today disposed of ten committee amendments to the tariff bill and cleared the way for early consideration of the major controversial sections relating to the tariff commission, the power of the president to change duties, and new valuation methods.

Eight minor amendments were adopted. By rejecting two, the senate restored house provisions designed to strengthen the anti-smuggling laws relating to smoking opium by making the owner, as well as the master of a vessel, liable to a fine of $25 an ounce for all such opium found on board.

Under the restored provisions, the penalty also would constitute a lien upon a vessel, notwithstanding the law providing for exemption of common carriers in such cases unless it is shown that the owner or master had knowledge of opium being on board.

The finance committee proposed elimination of the house amendments, but was turned down in both instances without a record vote.

GOVERNOR OFFERS REWARD IN FLOGGING

Charlotte, N. C., September 23.—(AP)—Reward of $500 for apprehension and conviction of persons guilty of kidnapping and beating Cleo Tesenair, National Textile Workers Union organizer, was offered here today by Governor Baldwin, of the American Civil Liberties Union.

The general situation following textile labor disorders remained quiet.

The reward brought to a total of somewhere above $2,000 the amount sought to prevent her attendance at the Civil Liberties Union in connection with floggings of textile organizers and a killing in this section in the past few weeks.

Lobbying exists always. Periodically it accumulates and grows bold until it smells bad. Then some action, or some steady influence, usually emanating from the White House, has, at present, the effect of disinfectant and insecticide, attended by the searing of creatures that work in darkness.

Respect for Law Grows.

In the case of prohibition, respect in Washington for this law and all law has come as a change in morale due to unostentatious, and for the most part, unspoken influences emanating from the White House. The evidence of the new morale is very plain. Among other places it appears in circles sometimes described as having "social importance." Washington is a city in which rank legitimately bulks large, because of familiarity with rank in army, in navy, government offices and diplomacy. As a consequence, the example of the "socially important" weighs rather more here than in most cities.

It is a fact so well known locally as to be almost sensational that Washington families who had always served liquor have ceased doing so during the past few months.

From their actions and from other evidence, it is certain that in the coming "social season" as it is called, dryness will be the vogue.

To go back nine years, Washington, immediately after prohibition came in 1920, was for a while satisfactorily dry. There was a mood of respect for the law, due in part, perhaps, to the then near memory of the war and the emotions that went with it.

The judgment of many qualified persons is that if early respect for prohibition at the seat of government could have been preserved, we would not have encountered our more recent troubles. The same judges tend to blame the Harding administration in considerable part for the breakdown of the early respect.

It became rather well known that some highly placed members of the easy going Harding administration had not changed their drinking habits with the coming of prohibition. At that time there was still much pre-war liquor in the country, and it was felt that some members of the Harding administration worked the "pre-war" alibi rather hard. In June, 1923, President Harding, with a pained realization of what was going on, characteristically made a public statement that he would never again drink liquor.

Harding's act of sincere fervor came too late. By that time the breakdown of morale in Washington had occurred. It is just now being restored.

Diplomats Quit Booze.

Senator Howell's unthinking overstatement was made in a speech in which his mind was on violation of the shipping laws in the importation of opium. When his attention was called to what he had thoughtlessly said, he honorably refrained from claiming to have evidence which he had not.

The one specific point he made was about the importation of liquor for foreign embassies in Washington. With regard to foreign embassies, the outstanding fact is that at this moment there is within the diplomatic world a degree of voluntary deference to President Hoover's position such as never existed before.

It is a respect which no one ever dreamed would come about, which could not be brought about by law and which could only arise out of voluntary regard for our government and president. There was immense force in the action taken in May by the most distinguished diplomat in Washington, the head of the British embassy, who made a public avowal of sympathetic co-operation with President Hoover. As a matter of self-imposed obligation he announced in effect that no more liquor would be imported by the British embassy while he was ambassador. Any such step taken by the British ambassador has a force in Washington such as would not be realized by persons not familiar with the city. It has force by virtue of the prestige of the British embassy among embassies. It has further force because of the fine personality of Ambassador Howard, and the extraordinary esteem in which he is held. It has some weight with other foreign embassies, and it has exceptional weight with Americans, especially the ones sometimes characterized as "socially important."

Senator Howell and some others think the foreign embassies can be coerced by the shutting off of shipments of liquor to them. The overwhelming judgment of lawyers is that this country cannot interfere with the importation of liquor by ministers of foreign governments. If this is the law it must be interpreted in the light of the Hoover administration's position, which is one of respect for all laws, including inconvenient ones. It is as incumbent on us to protect foreign embassies in laws guaranteeing their rights, as it is for us to enforce the prohibition law where the prohibition applies.

In any event there is enormous weight in what the Hoover administration has accomplished in this particular field through its voluntary tribute to the administration's quiet influence.

BOND SALE BARRED

Court Disapproves Selling of $400,000 in Road Bonds.

Milan, Tenn., September 23.—(AP)—The Gibson county court today declined to approve sale of $400,000 highway bonds, charging the transaction as completed by County Judge J. E. Parker was "illegal" and unwarranted and without authority.

The bonds were disposed of in Nashville by Judge Parker, but E. C. House, county clerk, refused to accept the sale. The county court contended the bonds were sold without advertisement and competitive bidding. The court tabled the motion to accept Judge Parker's transaction, and immediately ordered the issue re-advertised.

CAPITAL IS GROWING DRIER AND DRIER.

BY MARK SULLIVAN.

Best Known Way To Relieve and Heal Toe Itch

This condition of the feet, cracked skin between and around the toes; inflammation and severe itching; water blisters and burning, is now known to be caused by a germ, or fungus growth.

The only way to get relief is to kill these fungus germs, which can be done, in from 24 to 72 hours, with a pleasant-smelling, delightful-to-use ointment, known as "Tetterine," prepared by Shaptrine Co., Savannah, Ga.

Tetterine is almost infallible in bringing prompt and comforting relief in these distressing conditions of the feet, and it may be had at any drug store for 90c, with a guarantee of perfect relief or money refunded.—(adv.)

WILLIAMS ST. GRADING TO BEGIN ABOUT JAN. 1

City Expected To Comply With County's Conditions in Improvement Project.

Widening, regrading and elimination of offsets on Williams street, from Spring to North avenue, probably will be begun by the first of the year, it was indicated Monday following a conference between Madison Bell, attorney for the Williams Street Improvement Association, and Mayor J. N. Ragsdale.

Plans are to make the street 40 feet wide and to regrade it so that it will be accessible and available as a great north-and-south artery to relieve other thoroughfares, principally Spring street and the Peachtree.

Fulton county commissioners several months ago agreed to do the grading, repaving and widening if the city would arrange to regrade side street so that they would conform to the new Williams street grade.

When the project is completed it will furnish a new artery from one of the most congested sections. It was pointed out that the work would provide a new and unimpeded roadway to Grant field and Georgia Tech.

Property owners along the route already have agreed to deed the necessary strips to the city to insure the improvement, and with Fulton county commissioners already committed to prosecute the project just as soon as the city complies with its part of the program, there is every reason to believe that the city will take necessary steps at once in the January finance sheet.

Mayor Ragsdale is heartily in favor of the project, and so expressed himself to Mr. Bell Monday. He will recommend that the finance committee place in the 1920 budget adequate funds to prosecute the improvement to uninterrupted conclusion, it was said.

Included among the property owners' committee which is sponsoring the project are Charles H. Black, Marion Smith, C. P. Pitchford, Mrs. Katherine Hillyer Connerat and Dr. Thomas P. Himmans.

Southern division manager for the Westinghouse Lamp Company.

Annual sales conference at the Cloister, Sea Island Beach, beginning Wednesday and continuing through Saturday. In addition to the sales representatives of the Atlanta division, A. E. Allen, vice president of the Westinghouse Lamp Company; C. A. Norton, manager of large lamp sales; A. E. Snyder, manager of miniature lamp sales, and other executives of the home office will be present and take a prominent part in the various discussions.

An unusually well-planned program of work and play has been arranged with the co-operation of the Sea Island company management. Howard E. Coffin, developer of the Sea Island property and a very prominent automotive executive, will address the conference at its opening session.

L. S. Paleton, manager of the company's interests in the south, says: "The conference is one of the methods we employ to constantly improve our efficiency and augment our service to the public. Our business is illumination, which is a commodity so little understood or appreciated that we cannot overlook any opportunity to make our gospel more effective."

"In the darkness of Mammoth Cave there are fish that have no eyes. Eternal darkness has caused them to become sightless. The eternal half night of our poorly lighted homes is putting a staggering burden on the eyesight of a great number of families here in the south."

"We hope to take part very soon in organizing a widespread publicity campaign of long duration that will have for its object the reduction of poorly lighted homes, because the vast credit that has allowed the improved lighting in factories, stores and industrial establishments is so greatly counteracted by the eyestrain at home."

Representatives of various departments of the school and student body attended the funeral ceremonies at Macon Monday. Among these were Mr. Brittain, George Sparks, J. E. McDaniel and J. W. Jefferies of the faculty; Captain Robinson and Commander Jones of the military and naval departments and P. C. Wesley of the student body.

Catarrh Is Serious Handicap on Victim

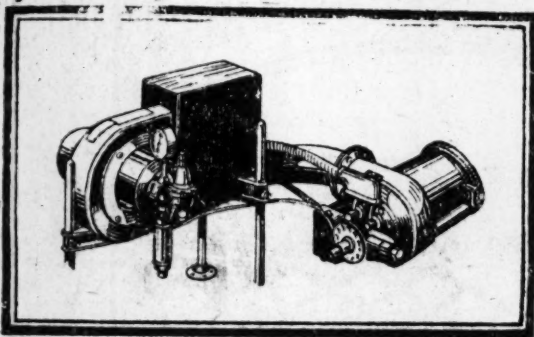

Find a man, woman or child who is afflicted with chronic catarrh of the nose and its connecting air passages and you will always find a patient who is most susceptible to more serious diseases. Why? Science explains that catarrh interferes with natural breathing thus preventing proper oxygenation and purification of the blood by the lungs and also absolutely prevents restful, refreshing sleep. Catarrh is a constant drain upon the nutrition of the body, making the patient weak and thereby susceptible to all germ infections such as colds, coughs, pneumonia, etc.

Your physician will tell you that catarrh is a local condition, not a systemic disease. You must fight it constantly with a local remedy that reaches the spot. Of the many remedies that have been tested for the relief of catarrh, none has given such uniformly successful results to the physician or attained such popular favor as the prescription of Dr. Runyon's White Wonder Salve. Applied in the nostrils, morning and night, "White Wonder" gives quick and most delightful relief. Clean, greaseless and absolutely stainless, White Wonder is a perfect example of the finest pharmaceutical art—joy and comfort to everyone who suffers with nasal catarrh.

Before Baby Comes

Ease and Comfort
for Expectant
Mothers

The muscles, tissues and nerves must "give" easily as the abdomen enlarges or much pain and suffering may result. More important still, is to have the tissues and muscles as "elastic" as possible when the great moment of childbirth arrives.

Countless thousands of expectant mothers for over 60 years have used "Mother's Friend"—that time-tested, scientifically-prepared skin lubricant and pain-reliever, which originated in the prescription of an eminent obstetrician—and have been relieved of the strain and the pain, the discomfort and the nervousness that come from the distention and the stretching of the skin and the tissues which attend this delicate condition.

Mother's Friend

lessens pain

You owe yourself the comfort "Mother's Friend" gives during the waiting months. It is so soothing and relaxing! It is not a drug to be taken. It is used externally only—gently rubbed into the skin. Clean and pleasant to the touch. Brings relief promptly. Very valuable in keeping the breasts in good condition. Also puts you in fine shape for the approaching ordeal.

"Mother's Friend" is on sale at all drug stores, $1.25 per bottle. Try a massage with it tonight and notice the ease and comfort it gives. A booklet on "Things to Know Before Baby Comes" will be mailed in plain envelope, free, on request. Address: Bradfield Regulator Co., Dept. E, Atlanta, Ga.

Atlantan Describes Holland, Her Native Land, at Luncheon

A talk on "Holland" featured the luncheon of the Woman's Division of the Chamber of Commerce, which was held Monday in the Chamber of Commerce dining room. Miss Jacqueline Van Raden, a native of Holland, who has been identified for some years with the business world of Atlanta, gave a talk about her native country. "Holland is so small in area," said Miss Van Raden, "that it is difficult for Americans to understand the volume of business done. Rotterdam, Amsterdam and The Hague with their populations of 500,000 to 600,000 each must, if they keep on expanding, eventually touch each other." She compared Georgia with its population of 2,895,832 over an area of 59,263 square miles, with Holland possessing 7,500,000 on an area of 15,750 square miles.

Holland are by boat and by bicycle. The highways of the country are canals. The best way to see the country is to rent a house boat for a week or two and take a vacation trip through the rivers, canals and lakes. These boats are well equipped with conveniences for comfortable living and may be run by motor, by man or horsepower, until sails can be used. "One of the most interesting things in Rotterdam is the way merchandise is handled by boats. These small freighters handle their boats in the narrow canals in the most expert fashion to keep from colliding with each other. It is much like crowded parking in our cities, although parking in the water is a far more difficult thing and it just takes a Dutchman to do it." Miss Van Raden told us much about the bulb industry, and the Delft ware, about Dutch art and architecture.

Mrs. Boykin takes an active part in the social, religious and civic life of Atlanta, and she has had training in club organization and experience in small and large clubs in Atlanta federation. She refused to accept any office until she deemed she had first secured training to fit her for that service, and when she became president several years ago of the Young Woman's Christian Association, her ability for leadership was evidenced. She is peculiarly fitted by nature, environment and experience as leader of the Atlanta federation, with wisdom and discernment in judgment as distinguishing attributes and she combines with poise rare personal charm.

Mrs. Boykin is a member of St. Mark's Methodist church, in which she has been president of the Woman's Missionary Society and taught the Young People's Bible class, of which she is now sponsor. She has been identified with the various phases of work at St. Mark's since it was built, having been prior to that time an active member of the old Merritt avenue church. Mrs. Boykin is president of the Methodist board of city missions. Ga. Tech Graduate Weds Savannahian In Near Future

The following excerpt from the Savannah Morning News of September 22, relative to the engagement of Miss Meta Thompson to John J. McDonough, of Brunswick, is of interest here. Mr. McDonough is a graduate of the Georgia School of Technology and has a wide circle of friends here.

"The announcement made today by Mr. and Mrs. W. Lee Thompson of the engagement of their daughter, Meta Elizabeth, to John J. McDonough, of Brunswick, formerly of Savannah, is of much cordial social interest owing to the popularity of both Miss Thompson and Mr. McDonough."

Miss Thompson is the second of the four charming daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Thompson, her mother having been before her marriage Miss Virginia Conkley, of King George county, Virginia. Miss Thompson is a particularly lovely looking young girl with an attractively vivacious manner, and she has been one of the most admired members of the younger set, since leaving school a few years ago.

"Mr. McDonough is the son of John J. McDonough, of Miami, and the grandson of Mr. McDonough and the late John J. McDonough, who was one of Savannah's most prominent citizens, having been mayor of the city for several terms. Mr. McDonough is a graduate of the Georgia School of Technology, where during his college years he starred in the backfield on the varsity football team. He is a member of the S. A. E. fraternity, and is now manager of the Brunswick office of the Georgia Power Company. No date has been set for the wedding, but it will take place in the near future."

THE BEASTS OF ARZAN No. 32

Jaac snatched the bundle from the cook. Her hungry mother arms folded the sleeping infant to her breast, while hot tears of joy ran down her cheeks and her whole frame shook with the emotion of the moment. "Come!" said the Swede. "We've got no time to waste!" He led her to the ship's side and they climbed to the waiting boat below. A moment later he cut the rope that held it and slowly they floated away.

Swede pulled steadily toward the black shadows of the Ugambi river. Jane wondered if the man knew where he was bound. A half hour later the moon then silently bending to the muffled oars the broke through the clouds, showing a narrow tributary up which the Swede turned the small boat's prow. Giant trees overhung its banks. Ghostly Spanish moss drooped from the bending limbs in riotous profusion.

Fine Job of Coaching in Evidence as Jackets Show Progress CLEMSON HAS SUPERIOR AIR ATTACK

JACKETS MAKE PROGRESS WITH MAREE AT FULL

Squad Has Much To Learn But Progress Is Rapid.

By Ralph McGill.

Georgia Tech's Yellow Jackets, swinging down the lane toward the season's opener with the Mississippi Aggies, offer to the nude eye concrete evidence of a fine job of coaching.

The Jackets, in a somewhat ragged workout Monday, showed nevertheless that they, as a squad, had made more progress in the same time than any squad in years.

Coach Bill Alexander's bold move, that of yanking Vance Maree, the south's greatest tackle, from his position and making a fullback of him, stands out as one of the most daring and smartest coaching maneuvers of the season.

HAD FULLBACKS.

Alexander had fullbacks probably as good as any which might be offered in the conference. Another coach might have gone along with them, leaving his line intact. Alexander had lost an all-American center and the entire right side of his line. He needed Maree's bulk and experience to act as an anchor for the right side of the line.

Meanwhile the Jackets moved along in conditioning. They lacked a certain intangible quality of cohesiveness on the offense. It required a comprehensive eye to see what was needed.

QUICK MOVE.

There used to be an old nursery rhyme about a young lady who could make a cherry pie quick as a cat could wink its eye. Bill Alexander made a fullback of a tackle in less time.

And the Jacket eleven clicked and began to swing along so that the ragged edges could almost be seen dropping off.

This does not mean that the attack will necessarily pulverize the opposition. The Jackets have much to learn. There is no telling what they will actually accomplish. But they are moving along at a fine time so far as progress and teamwork are concerned.

GOOD COACHING.

The signal drill of yesterday showed that beyond a doubt, Coach Bill Alexander, Bill Fincher and their aides have done a fine job of work. There has been a great deal of summing about the attack. The Man at the Flats would employ this fall. It was suggested and insisted that the Man at the Flats said nothing at all very loudly, that he would use a more varied attack this fall.

It hardly is probable. There seems to be enough left of the Tech machine for it to chug right along with the same old system. If Vance Maree were appearing on the football horizon as a fullback instead of a reformed tackle, he would likely be hailed as a fullback sensation. I think he will be helped in this, it is done.

MAREE PRASED.

Dan McGugin, coach of the Commodores, thinks Alexander made a ten strike when he made the swap. "Maree is one of the finest football players I ever saw," he said. "I do not know why he would not fit into any position on a football team, line or backfield, and play a good game."

The Savannah Savant is quite a football player. He has helped ten men helping him. The Tech variety, that is the first starting eleven (subject to change without notice), will be selected this week. It is practically determined now. There is a line position or so and a flank job to be decided.

Meanwhile Mike Miles, the new backfield coach, is working almost entirely with the remaining fullback candidates. It would develop that the back material is not so good as it once was. Miles will be forced to go back into the line. And Miles will have his hands full of man-in-undue-to man.

THE FINCHER IDEA.

Bill Fincher's line is getting the Fincher idea. The Fincher idea is that if the opposing line is lying that his dorsal fin some three or four yards away from the line of scrimmage he has very little chance of getting up and making the tackle. The Fincher idea precludes any varied possibilities. A man with his back can do little but indulge in a brief study of the skies and reflect on man's inhumanity to man.

Tech will likely pass more this season than any Tech team has ever passed. They have in Earl Dunham one of those rare passers who possesses timing and accuracy. Knowledge that a pass is likely to be thrown does not aid the opposition at all. Tech would do well to develop a reputation for a pass attack threat. A good passer is not greatly valued by the coaches. That is if he has an intelligent receiver or if he is an intelligent receiver.

The Jackets are swinging down the lane toward October 5 against the Mississippi Aggies. And a mighty smart job of coaching will have them ready.

Fincher's Machine Gets Attention.

Bill Fincher's line-backing machine, which shows the forces applied, is attracting considerable attention. A representative of the Toledo Stars Company made the trip to Atlanta yesterday to see Fincher's invention and was most favorably impressed. The machine is fitted with wheels which register the force of impact by a charging lineman. It is the first time in football history that it has been possible to accurately measure the force of a charge. The machine is patented and investigation by sporting goods companies is expected to follow.

Three Big Guns McCarthy Will Fire at Athletics

Here are three men who helped win the National league pennant for Chicago Cubs. Left is Hack Wilson, one of the heaviest hitters in the National league. He will be in center field. In the center is Riggs Stephenson, former Alabama player, whose fielding and hitting was a big factor in the Cub success. At the right is Pat Malone, pitcher. He has done well all season and will probably draw a couple of assignments in the series with the Athletics.

Loyalty to McCarthy, Fight Win for Cubs

Wrigley Finally Getting Return on Huge Expenditures in Attempt To Get Winner.

By Paul R. Mickelson, Associated Press Sports Writer.

Chicago, September 23.—(AP)—A fighting spirit, inspired by profound loyalty to William Wrigley and Joe McCarthy, pervades the ranks of the bustling Cubs as they start fortifying against the world series assault of Connie Mack's rampant Athletics.

Glenna Leads Canada Women

Lancaster, Ont., September 23.—(AP)—Glenna Collett, United States women's champion, led the field in the qualifying round of the Canadian women's open golf championship today, carding a fine 72, two under par.

Miss Collett was out in 40, even par, and shaved two strokes off perfect figures coming home, saving 37. A stroke back of the United States star was Marjorie Kirkham, of the Marlborough Club, Montreal, tied for third place with 80s, were Helen Hicks, the long-driving player from Hewlett, N. Y., and Ada Mackenzie, of Toronto, who won the Canadian women's title last year.

Of the 32 qualifiers, 15 were from Canadian clubs and 17 from the United States.

McCarthy is a type who breeds loyalty by his direct methods and policy of letting players succeed as best they know how. Last spring he said he liked, hitting for the Cubs, to beat him before and am keeping faith with Mr. Wrigley and Mr. McCarthy. We will have a hard time to turn the trick.

"I have a home run every time I come to bat," was the way McCarthy put it. "But I'll be swinging for runs if I have to hit."

"I'm in a slump now, but I'll be ready for the Macks," Guy Bush said, and his spirit was no greater than that expressed by Pitchers Charlie Root, Pat Malone, Sheriff Blake, Hal Carlson and Artie Nehf.

Boats Arrive. New Orleans, La., September 23.—(AP)—Five trim little Star Class boats which will enter the International Star Class meet at the Southern Yacht Club October 3-16 were aboard the steamer Edgar Luckenbach, which docked here this afternoon. Three of the boats are from Pacific coast fleets, one from Honolulu, and the other will carry the colors of the Manila fleet.

Hard Grind. Washington, September 23.—(AP)—Coach Lou Little, of Georgetown, today ordered a hard grind for his squad this week in preparation for the Hoyas opening game with Mount St. Mary next Saturday. Offensive plays would be stressed, he said, particularly his new "scrambled egg" formation.

TUNNEY Suing FOR BLACKMAIL

Retired Champion Denies Allegations Picturing Him as Don Juan.

Stamford, Conn., September 23.—(United News).—James J. (Gene) Tunney, former world's heavyweight boxing champion, raised a legal cry of blackmail against Katherine King Fogarty, plump Texas divorcee, and her former husband today in answering their $1,000,000 suits charging him with being a fickle Don Juan.

Tunney's counter-claim came in the form of a reply to the $500,000 suit by John S. Fogarty, of North Worth, Texas, which charged that the pugilist had alienated Mrs. Fogarty's affections.

In 13 words Tunney denied the truth of Fogarty's purple charges and proceeded to a counter-claim in which he accused Fogarty and Mrs. Fogarty of conspiring with "divers other persons" to defraud and blackmail him.

Tunney and his bride, the former Polly Launder, of Greenwich, Conn., are still in Italy enjoying their protracted honeymoon on the Isle of Brioni. The reply to Fogarty's suit was filed through Tunney's attorneys, Cummings and Lockwood, of Stamford, in the superior court at Bridgeport. It was said that there is no likelihood of any of the suits going to trial before late October and that Tunney has given no information as to when he plans to return to the United States.

Mrs. Fogarty's suit, asking $500,000 of the ex-champion for alleged breach of promise, is also pending.

Four Tarheels Hurt in Wreck

Chapel Hill, N. C., September 23.—(AP)—Four Tarheel players hurt when four promising players figured in an automobile accident east of Salisbury, N. C., that probably will keep the whole quartet out of Saturday's important game with Wake Forest.

But Eskew, varsity guard, Greenville, S. C., was in the group, and suffered a head cut that necessitated the taking of five stitches. Eskew was the only letterman hurt.

The others were all from Charlotte and are sophomore line candidates. Sam Duvauant, guard, sustained a broken collar bone and concussion of the brain, and is in the Salisbury hospital. Ty Reid, candidate for end, suffered scalp cuts that required 17 stitches. John Daniels, tackle candidate, apparently escaped injury.

Cincinnati Stock Jumps to $216

Cincinnati, September 23.—(AP)—Stock of the Cincinnati National League Baseball club, of $50 par value, which last week jumped from $80 to $125 a share after it was rumored Jack Hendricks might be replaced as the Reds' manager, reached a record high at $210 today. Hendricks tendered his resignation yesterday.

Brokers said two large blocks of stock exchanged hands at $210 today but refused to name the purchasers. Sporting and financial circles report a contest has been under way here the last two weeks between two men to obtain control of the Reds.

Mrs. Fogarty's suit, asking $500,000 of the ex-champion for alleged breach of promise, is also pending.

Strong Rush Line Protects Backs Of Cody Eleven

Tigers Have Excellent Passer and Two Good Receivers and Will Count on Air Game. Team Is Powerful and Smart.

By Ed Danforth, Constitution Sports Editor.

Clemson S. C., September 21.—Clemson College, splendidly isolated atop the table lands of South Carolina, is in the midst of a gridiron renaissance. A big football revival is in full cry. The old Tiger that has not stalked since Johnny Heisman coached the farmer boys has hit the sawdust trail. Josh Cody is the gigantic, soft-voiced revivalist who has worked a veritable faith cure on the once palsied, fearful Clemson football cause.

From the cellar champions of the conference, kicked about by denominational schools on the gridiron to a growing power in big-time football is the record of Clemson in two years. That Clemson is a factor to be reckoned with is unmistakable and a glance at the fine lot of freshman players who are learning their A. B. C.'s under Joe Guyon satisfies one that Clemson's future is pretty well insured.

Clemson always has been an ideal spot for the development of a fine football machine. The sturdiest type of Anglo-Saxon stock is naturally drawn there to study agriculture, dairying and the textile arts. Some 1,200 boys are housed in huge dormitories under strict military supervision. Their diet is regulated by a master steward. There are no metropolitan distractions, no excessive social attractions to thwart normal development. The players are always under the eye of the coach. By stepping into the huge court behind the dormitories, the coach can call his entire squad together by blowing a whistle.

Frankly, there is nothing much for Clemson boys to do in the fall but go out for football. All Clemson needed for all those years was a man who knew his football and knew men. Big Josh Cody was the man.

Powerful Forward Wall.

Clemson turns out a magnificent lot of physical specimens into the practice field these afternoons. The varsity squad of some 50 men grades above most of the conference in height. Clemson's rush line, for instance, can match pounds with Kentucky, and I believe will outweigh Alabama's and Vanderbilt's. And yet there is not a fat man on the first eleven. The backs are generally short and chunky and hard to hurt and hard to stop. The whole crew suggests a powerful offense and a rugged, if not a quick-witted defense. And the reserve strength this year is exceptionally ample.

Clemson musters an entire team of letter winners with exception of a center, yet competition is so keen and enthusiasm so high that there appears no danger of flagging interest as the season goes along.

Good On Passes.

Much has been said of Clemson's power—that is, the promise of an effective running attack. But from what I saw of the boys in scrimmages, I feel safe in saying that the Tigers' forward passing game will be the talk of their opponents before this season is very old. Coach Cody has two remarkable pass receivers in Bob Jones and Foggy Woodruff, his 180-pound end, and another fine prospect in "Goat" McMillin. And his boys give the passer superb protection. "Goat" has all the time in the world to get his passes away. In conference games has been given a sounder pass play than Josh Cody has devised.

Bob Swafford, 214 pounds, is a tackle who runs now is of all caliber. His running mate, Joe Collins, weighs 204 pounds, and is a vigorous player who has absorbed much of Coach Cody's own style of play.

Bill Gunnels and Jim Gassaway, 190 pounds, are veteran guards who can hustle out and back. However, there is another fine looking prospect in Reuben Seigel, who scales 190 pounds and is a real fighter. He may win a starting ticket.

Battle at Center.

At center where the capable Pressley was lost one finds Jim Dykes, Harry Griffin and Metz Gresham, a sophomore, all working hard for the job.

In the line reserves are several fine looking sophomores. I learned that Coach Cody plans to substitute his ends, tackles and guards in pairs, they are that numerous. Besides, they intend to play a lot of football at Clemson for the next few years and the lads need experience.

At quarterback is Captain O. D. Padgett, a smart player, a hard blocker and a good pass receiver. "Goat" Moore in pairs, they are the hard-driving halves. They are hard-driving types. Bob McCarthy is an old-fashioned plunging fullback and a murderous blocker. That backfield played together last year as a unit and probably is as canny on defense as any in the conference.

Another Red Barron

Among the backfield reserves is James Pickens, a husky blond powerhouse who runs with all the recklessness of Red Barron. The coaches think Pickens is the best prospect they have seen.

Josh Cody is making no great claims for his club this year. Neither is he indulging the gridiron blues. "Why should I tell a hard luck story?" he says. "Nobody would believe me with all those letter men back. The boys have a lot to learn and winning football games is a new experience for some of them. But I think they will have a better season than last year and by 1930 we ought to be pretty good."

Clemson has a glittering chance of winning all its conference games. In standing in the gridiron blues. "Why should I tell a hard luck story?" he says. Red Devils Learn Petrel Plays for Scrimmage Use Against Varsity

GEORGIA PREPS FOR SATURDAY'S OPENING TILT

Heavy Work Scheduled as Red and Black Enters Last Week.

Athens, Ga., September 23. A wet field hampered the Bulldogs as they began their last week of preparation for the opening game with Oglethorpe, here this afternoon. The work-out was light and the entire varsity squad was allowed to rest from scrimmage.

The Red Devils and Gene Smith's freshmen put on the only scrimmage of the afternoon. The first-year men, who were using Oglethorpe plays, were on the offense throughout the practice. Buster Mott, ex-Tech High star, handled himself nicely during the scrimmage, making several long gains. At one time during the play he stopped through the Red Devil line and ran for 30 yards before being stopped. Isom, halfback, and Crenshaw, end, also showed up well for the Bulldogs.

The little scrimmage this afternoon was just a practice for the freshmen, who will be called upon during the next few days to run Oglethorpe's plays against the varsity. Coaches Mehre and Thomas are not taking their first game of the season lightly and have been driving the entire squad through hard practices in order to get all of them in good condition for the opening game.

For the varsity backs, most of the practice was spent in perfecting their pass defense, and Coach Thomas' men are beginning to look pretty good at knocking down forward passes. Coach Mehre took over the guards and tackles again today and sent them through a snappy practice of offensive and defensive plays before turning all of the linemen over to Chick Shiver. The Georgia end coach had the linemen go through a rather lengthy practice of dummy charging.

Jack Roberts and Theodore Frisbie were both back in uniform today running signals. Roberts' injury has improved sufficiently to allow him to participate in a little of the rough stuff.

Crimsons Get Blocking Work.

Tuscaloosa, Ala., September 23.—Coach Wallace Wade drove the Alabama grid squad through a workout in a steady downpour of rain Monday afternoon, and the boys worked with a will in the disagreeable weather. Although the ball was slippery and "crazy," the Tide made a good showing in a special drill on returning the kickoff. Blocking was the main object of the drill, and Tony Holm and Leon Long were blocking fairly well, although Coach Wade signified his dissatisfaction with their lack of viciousness. His constant remark was: "You're in it all right, but you aren't vicious enough."

If Coach Wade has his way only two men will remain upright on the field a second or two after the opening whistle, the ball carrier and the enemy safety man. McLight, the big blocker from north Alabama, dashed through the whole team for a touchdown from kickoff on one of the tries.

Y. C. A. A. Lays Court Plans

Nineteen basketball teams were represented at the meeting of the Y. C. A. A. Monday night and indications point to a banner year for the members as many courts have been secured for the use of the association and this will permit formation of as many leagues as are needed.

The boys' leagues, which are partly formed, will play Monday, Thursday and Friday nights each week through out the season and as the girls' league will play on Tuesday nights there will be no conflict.

Nine teams have already enrolled for the girls' division and as some of the members of the league last season are yet to be heard from two leagues for that division seems certain. Another meeting of both divisions will be held next Monday night and teams wishing to play under the association's auspices are urged to be represented then.

Pitcher Pat Malone Doped as Series Star

Cub Star Justified McCarthy's Faith and Develops Into Leading Pitcher.

By L. A. Farrell.

It's open season for the dopsters. And who will cast aside the good old dope when it comes to forecasting and predicting and pointing out and evading on the probabilities of the forthcoming series?

The good old dope has saved many a so-called or self-styled expert. How often have we read, "The dope was upset, etc."

Well, here's the dope. And it may pan out.

Pat Malone is a great pitcher, one of the greatest in the game. If the dope runs true he should be greater in the series next month than he ever has been before. And if he is, it's going to be pretty tough for Messrs. Simmons, Fox, Cochrane, et al., particularly the tall Mr. Mack.

GTS BITE.

Ever since he became a pitcher Perce Pat Malone has been graduating from one league to another and each year he has been getting better. He has been a far better pitcher in the major leagues than he was in the American Association, and a much better pitcher in the Double A than he was in the Western and other smaller leagues. If he runs true to form he may be even a better pitcher in the big series than he has been in the National, and that's saying something for Malone has won more ball games than any pitcher in the majors. Since midsummer he has been the most consistent pitcher in either league.

The following record is unique. Usually a pitcher burns the bowl and pitcher circuits and flickers when he hits the big time. With Malone it's just the reverse.

THE BOOKS SHOW THAT Malone started with Knoxville in the old Appalachian league. He won 13 ball games and lost 12. No earned run average is shown. For the next few years he was buffeted around, having brief trials with the Giants in 1922 and showing up again as a regular with Minneapolis in the American Association. He worked in 20 games, winning only two and losing nine. His earned run average was the worst in history, 8.30. The next year, 1924, he won 11 games and lost 13. As in the year previous, his earned run average was terrible, 4.86, but he again got a job in Class A company for 1925. That year he was with the Demons at a pennant and almost single-handed beat Springfield for the Mississippi valley championship. He wound up the season with an earned run average of something like 4.20.

But Malone was learning to use something besides his arm, and in 1926 he won 11 games and lost 18. His earned run average continued to improve. He finished with a 3.50.

CUBS KEEPT HIM.

The Cubs took him for the 1928 season. Joe McCarthy, who had managed Louisville, thought he knew a pitcher when he saw one. Malone was a starting pitcher with the Cubs from the opening day of last season. But it was a dismal start. He lost the first six games. The purchase from Minneapolis had been conditional and there was something like $30,000 involved, but McCarthy still thought Malone a great pitcher. When June 1 came he kept the hurler who had lost six games and won none and sent him to a Wrigley check for the $30,000.

After the bad start Malone wound up last season with 18 wins and 13 losses and an earned run average of only 2.83, the best in his career. This year he has been even better. He has won 22 games and lost but 9. His last 22 starts have been shut-outs, and though the E. R. averages are not out yet he's up among the leaders.

Watch him in the series.

Pacific Coast Experts Pick Trojans To Win Conference Title

Powerful Squad Has Weight, Speed

90 Stalwarts Report to Jones for Practice—Team Is Facing Arduous Schedule.

Los Angeles, September 23.—If anything beats the University of Southern California Trojans out of the conference championship this year, it will be their schedule. That is the prevailing opinion of coast grid experts today, as the conference teams go through their second week of practice.

On Bovard field, the Trojan training ground, Coach Howard Jones was greeted by some 90 stalwarts who comprised enough beef, bulk, speed and ability to gladden the heart of any man.

At Berkeley, Coach Nils Price looked over a similar number of University of California hopefuls, and found lots of defense and little offense.

At Stanford, Coach Pop Warner looked a lot of beef, a lot of backs, not too talented, and some gaping holes in his line.

At Washington, Coach Enoch Bagshaw looked over 21 lettermen and named the loss of "Chuck" Carroll, all-American halfback last year.

At Oregon, Coach McEwan won a smile a yard wide, and prepared to upset Stanford, if possible, in his first big game of the season.

CALLAND MAKES BOW.
At Idaho, Coach Leo Calland, making his debut, found 11 lettermen good enough for a first team and no reserves.

The rest of the mentors found little or nothing to cheer about, and little is expected from them this season.

Jones drew up six teams and sent them through drills immediately. Jones has an 11-game schedule to face, and five of his first six tilt are against conference opponents. He must face Washington, Stanford and California in a period of 22 days, with only one day between the first two for a breathing spell. He opens September 28 against U. C. L. A., which isn't much, tackles Oregon State the following week, then goes up against Washington at Seattle, Occidental at Los Angeles, Stanford at Palo Alto, and California in the local coliseum. All of which is none too pleasant.

Jones lined up two elevens of about equal strength, two more with several hopefuls who are a cinch to see variety work at one time or another, and a couple more made up of just plain prospects. The first team included Tappan and Stepanovich, veterans of two years' service, at ends, although the latter played running guard last year; Anthony, a two-year regular, and Hoff, two-year under-pooly of Jess Hibbs, at tackles; Captain Nate Barragar and Jess Shaw, center and tackle respectively last year, at guards; and Williamson, a sophomore at center. Richards Wins In Pro Tourney

Forest Hills, N. Y., September 23. (AP)—Vincent Richards, of New York, the defending titleholder, and Karel Kozeluh, of Czechoslovakia, his most dangerous rival, easily won their first matches in the United States professional lawn tennis championship at the West Side Tennis Club today.

Richards defeated Louis Volpe, Jr., of the Weston Golf Club, Massachusetts, 6-2, 6-0, 6-0, and Kozeluh disposed of Lief Nordlie, of the Morris County Golf Club, New Jersey, 6-0, 6-0, 6-0.

SECOND SQUAD.
The second team included Wilcox, sub last year, and Arbelide, sophomore, at ends; Hall, 6 foot 3 inch sophomore, and Bond, last year's sub, at tackles; Templeton, last year's sub center, and Galloway, regular guard for two years, at guards; and George Dye, the 254-pound transfer from Alabama, at center. Marshall Duffield, sparkling sophomore last year, was at quarter, with Apist, sub last season, and Pluckert, freshman quarterback last year, at the halfback berths; and Musick, freshmen, at fullback.

Jones is fortunate in that he has plenty of capable material for each regular, and each man will be battling furiously for a regular berth. With the exception of the ends, every line man mentioned weighs 195 or better, with most of them hovering around the 200 mark.

The Next Big Fight

The next official party to be thrown in behalf of Tommy Loughran and Jack Sharkey may decide one of three things, the final answer being up to the fighters.

It may decide that Loughran is well in the lead when it comes to naming a successor to Gene Tunney.

It may decide the same thing for Sharkey.

It may decide that neither is to be considered when it comes to the matter of placing a crown at some future date upon the clammy brow of the next champion.

Both Loughran and Sharkey should dispel the idea that the winner, no matter what else happens, will be the pick of the field. Sharkey was a higher choice before he won from Stribling than he was after he had won from Stribling. That was a fight that set both the winner and the loser back as far as any championship dream was concerned. It is just as well to hammer in the fact that it will be quite important how the winner wins, as well as who the winner is. So far as ring history goes this occasion is a trifle too important in the way of helping to name a new champion to let either man slide by with a close decision plucked from a dull fight. Both have the stuff to put on a big show if they will only take a few of the chances Dempsey used to take—say about 20 per cent of the chances Dempsey used to take. If both refuse to take any such turn at chance there can be little real action, since both know too much to be annoyed to any great extent in a play-it-safe evening. They are two of the best boxers in the game and Loughran is the better boxer of the two. These two have enough to put on a whale of a show if they will put on the full act and make an attempt to prove something much more conclusive than most of the heavyweight fights have been.

Loughran's Claim

Tommy Loughran, one of the best boxers the game has known in many years, has always claimed that he was handicapped by too much weight making to take any chance of harder hitting.

He has his chance now to show what he can do when it comes to a matter of harder hitting. Loughran is smart and all loaded up with scientific skill. He is game enough and he has all the experience any one needs. But he can't tap his way to the top. He ought to be a first-class puncher when you consider his build. He has all the muscular development a good puncher needs.

As for Sharkey—well, the Sharkey who fought Wills, Meloney and Dempsey is so far apart from the Sharkey who fought Heeney, Risko and Stribling that no one can tell about him. Two years ago he looked to be a sure bet. It all depends upon his mood for the night.

For example, golf is supposed to be a game depending upon one's mental attitude for the round. With Sharkey every fight is a matter of mental attitude. He either cares a lot or he doesn't care at all.

John McGraw used to say that Tillie Shafer could be as great a ball player or as bad a ball player as he wanted to be. Sharkey can be as great a fighter or as poor a fighter as he wants to be on the night in question. He might have been the man picked to meet Tunney in Chicago. He might have been the man picked to meet Tunney in New York. He has blown two of the biggest chances any fighter has ever known. Whether he will blow a third is anybody's guess, and yours will stand up with any of the experts, for no one can excavate into mental moods and dig up an answer.

Any one can dig up a guess, but a guess isn't always an answer, which any one who plays the races or roulette will tell you. There is quite a difference, here and there, when the time comes to pay off.

BATTALINO WINS FEATHER TITLE

Youth Scores Flashy Victory Over Routis at Hartford.

By Edward J. Neil.

Associated Press Sports Writer.

Hartford, Conn., September 23. (AP)—Christopher "Bat" Battalino, slim, black-visaged Italian boy born to a fighting name, stepped into the crown room of the featherweights tonight and with all the ease, speed and insolence of youth swept the crown of champion from the head of Andre Routis.

The leather-worn French veteran, holder of the title for only a year, was scarcely ever a contender in his grim, hopeless effort to save the crown. So wide was Battalino's margin of superiority that Referee Billy Conway, the sole arbiter under the boxing laws of Connecticut, gave every one of the 15 rounds to the challenger while about 17,000 of the faithful, come to cheer their home town hero, rocked the stadium with applause for the new champion.

The crowd paid approximately $60,000 for their entertainment, a new record for fight gate receipts in this state.

There were no knockdowns but the wild maneuvering about the ring caused Battalino to slip to the floor twice as punches caught him off-balance. Once Routis went down the same time but neither was in danger of a knockout at any time. Routis managed to draw a trickle of blood from Battalino's nose early in the skirmish.

Series Is Prelim To Salary War

Baseball's Greatest Battle Looms for Winter. Contracts of Many Stars Expire.

By Ralph McGill.

This world series which the Macks and the Cubs are scheduled to play in the near future is just a little side show preliminary to the greatest baseball salary war the game has ever known.

This war with the holdouts will be the first one fought with genuine holdouts and determined owners. They face the greatest array of baseball idols with terminated contracts the game has seen in a single year.

Some of the baseball stars who must sign new contracts are Babe Ruth, Waite Hoyt, Bob Meusel and Herb Pennock, of the Yankees; Fred Lindstrom, Larry Benton and Eddie Roush, of the Giants; Denny Vance and Babe Herman, of the Robins; Paul Waner, of the Pirates; Rogers Hornsby, of the Cubs, and Frank Frisch and Jim Bottomley, of the Cardinals.

PREPARE FOR WAR.
Baseball owners have been preparing for the war all summer. Without having made any definite announcement they have let it be known that no such tremendous salaries as were paid in the past will be offered on the contracts for the 1930 season.

Ball players are equally as adamant. For the first time in baseball there will likely be an army of real holdouts and a test at the gate. The players contend the fans come to see the stars. The owners contend, but somewhat weakly, that they come to see the games.

George Herman (Babe) Ruth's contract of $70,000 per year for three years expires. Baseball owners know that the fans come to see The Great Man hit home runs. The Yankees are a less colorful outfit with The Great Man out of the lineup. The Yankees should renew his contract. Baseball should pay him a salary as long as he lives. It was he who came along with the Big Stick and made the fans forget the Black Sox and the baseball scandals. He gave baseball its greatest games when the owners expected the least.

MANY STORIES.
There have been many stories about The Great Man and his 1930 salary. It has been estimated at $100,000 and at $85,000. Another has it for one year and $85,000. Still another has it that the Babe will not play if he does not get $100,000.

The Babe, despite his comparatively "off season," is the best bet to get what he goes after. Nearer than any other man he comes to being as great as the game. He will hardly get his $100,000. Had the Yankees won another pennant and had the Babe

Change in Fumble Rule Wise Move, Says Coach Bob Zuppke

NOTHING LOST WITH CHANGE OF OLD RULE

Illinois Coach Mentor Says Fans Will Not Notice Change.

By Robert C. Zuppke, Football Coach, University of Illinois (Copyright, 1929, by the North American Newspaper Alliance.)

Chicago, September 23.—The most important change in the football rules, a matter which my colleague, Howard Jones, discussed in a dispatch to The Constitution yesterday, prevents opponents from running with fumbled balls which they have received, and in my opinion this is a wise and logical provision.

The new rule provides that a ball which has been muffed or fumbled and then recovered by the opponents after it strikes the ground may not be advanced, but is automatically dead at the point where it was recovered.

This change is by no means as revolutionary and radical as some of my friends among the coaches, and other critics, seem to think. The rules committee previously had put the same restriction on fumbled punts and forward passes, and merely completed a logical cycle by including the ordinary fumble.

There are those who lament that one of the great opportunities for thrilling feats has been ruthlessly amputated from the game, and they point to famous occasions when a hero has won his niche in the hall of fame by scooping up a fumbled ball and turning defeat into victory in the twinkling of an eye.

It was my impression that after all, long runs and dashes for touchdowns by players who had recovered fumbled balls were far from common, and an examination of the statistics compiled by the football historian, Parke H. Davis, for Spalding guide, confirms this belief.

Mr. Davis lists 248 "famous runs" from 1873 to the present, and only 29 were made after the ensnared player had picked up a fumbled ball. In just 12 instances his feat won the game.

Undoubtedly Mr. Davis includes in his 29 runs a number made by recovering a fumbled punt, something committees had legislated against before this year.

Athletic Must Pay To See Game

Philadelphia, September 23.—(AP) Eric McNair, one of the latest additions to Connie Mack's aggregations of ball players who was responsible for four runs against the Washington Senators yesterday, tying the score in the ninth inning, will have to pay to see the Athletics play the Chicago Cubs. He knew he was ineligible to play in the series but expected to see the games from the bench.

YALE GETS NEW SYSTEM

is not entirely responsible for the transformation in style.

Head Coach Mal Stevens, young for a head coach, but full of bright ideas, is far from a conservative himself and when the old style failed to click to suit him, he was perfectly willing to say, "Other days, other games."

Yale has seen a flock of experienced backs pass from the picture by graduation and injury, so the task of the coaches will be easier than would have been the case if the ball carriers had been called on to forget much of their previous running orders.

Line prospects have been encouraging in the first week's practice and a sturdy set of forwards will co-operate in the carrying out of the plays to be run from the new formations.

One lineman who seems sure to get plenty of work before his chores are done is Freddy Loeser, who was the snapper back last year. He is now only a part-time center. He remains a rotating center on defense, but when Yale has the ball he will play guard with Art Palmer, the crew captain, handling the ball first. Abbie Booth, sensation of last year's freshman team, is expected to do great things for the Elis, and these great expectations may place the New Haven youth in a difficult spot. Many of his supporters expect him to out-Cagle Red Cagle and out-Grange Red Grange.

With Booth a backfield certainty the indications are that the remainder of the quartet will be Herb Miller, Kemp Dunn and Bob Wilson, the hockey captain. Crutchank, Austin and Sneed gained experience last year that will be valuable now; Taylor, Gould, Muhlfeld and Bachman are good prospects from the freshmen.

There are 17 "V" men in the squad, including Captain Firo Greene, Dunn, Ferris, Goldman, Loeser, Marting, Mc-

GEORGIA FACES TWO BIG TASKS AT VERY START

Bulldogs Must Dispose of Furman and Oglethorpe Before Yale Classic.

By Eddie Brietz, Athens, Ga., September 23. (AP)—About the most charitable thing that can be said of football prospects at the University of Georgia this season is that 1929 does not look like a Georgia year.

Coach Harry Mehre faces a stupendous task. He has a schedule that is terrifying at all.

Last year's Georgia team was fair to middling. This year it will be more fair than middling what with six or seven green sophomores stepping into the shoes of as many 1928 regulars who at best were not guilty of setting any woods on fire.

Present indications are that three sophomores will play regularly in the backfield and at least three in the line. They are capable youngsters as sophomores go but Mehre will continue to fidget until he sees them under fire a few times.

Georgia plays Oglethorpe and Furman first and then Yale. That's the rub. Georgia must win both these early games or else a lot of kick will be taken out of the Yale affair which is to be played in the fine new Bulldog stadium before a crowd of more than 35,000 people.

Georgia is gunning for Yale and both Furman and Oglethorpe will have their guns trained on Georgia. Mehre can't do any experimenting after the first whistle blows. He'll have to go in there, shoot the works and trust in luck and his sophomores.

Everybody in Athens is pepped up for the Yale game and the bulldogs have imbibed some of the spirit. It would cause no surprise here if the eastern Bulldog is sent home yelping.

After Yale comes Florida and Alabama, Tulane and North Carolina, New York university and Georgia Tech.

If Harry Mehre could finish with such a record he probably would feel he had had a very successful season.

Ewen, Sneed, Miller, Palmer, Walker, Hickok, Wilson, Ladd Stewart Hall and Vincent.

The First Ghost.

The first world series between the Athletics and the Cubs, nineteen years ago, resulted in two sinister developments. Perhaps the most lasting evil of this contest was the athletic ghost-writer. Up to that time the sport pages were comparatively honest with their readers, but athletic ghost-writing since that time has spread until some sports pages have become almost entirely spectral.

The first athletic ghost-writer, I regret to report, was none other than my amiable colleague, Mr. William James Macbeth. But I make haste to report that since he committed his first offense he became thoroughly repentant and since has been leading a life that is almost beyond reproach.

It was an editor (not of this paper) who ordered him to commit the offense. Mr. Macbeth was assigned to ghost-write that particular series in the name of George Mullen, who was a pitcher on the Detroit Tigers contemporaneously with Wild Bill Donovan. Mr. Macbeth was a bit puzzled at the order, but he was sure then that an editor could do no wrong.

Picked Athletics.

He reported to Philadelphia to meet his accomplice, Mullen, the pitcher, to ask his opinions on any—of the world series. At the time the Chicago National league team was an overwhelming favorite to win the series. All the experts were saying so. With an original inspiration, Mr. Macbeth sat at his typewriter and wrote in the name of George Mullen that the Athletics would win the series in four straight games. This was the lone prediction to that effect.

Hardly had Mr. Macbeth dispatched his essay to his editor when his accomplice, Mr. George Mullen, arrived on the scene.

"Well, Mr. Macbeth," said the athlete affably, "Shall we get at our piece for the papers?"

"It's done and gone," said Mr. Macbeth. "I couldn't find you."

"Fine," said Mr. Mullen. "Whom did we pick to win the series?"

"Well, whom do you suppose?" retorted Mr. Macbeth enigmatically. "There was no answer to that. Nobody was picking the Athletics that year."

Mr. Macbeth spent a rather troubled night in the hotel. Came the dawn and with it the forcible entry of Mr. Macbeth's bedroom by six feet two of infuriated pitching talent.

Mr. Macbeth feigned slumber and simulated snoring. Now, there is nobody else in the world who can simulate the Macbethian snore but the Macbeth himself. A steam calliope from Mr. Kingling's circus might give some faint notion of the effect, but a very faint one at that.

"Get up, you blank dash traitor, and fight like a man," shouted Mr. Mullen. "You have made a blank dash fool out of me, and I'm going to make blank dash out of you."

"What's the matter?" demanded Mr. Macbeth. "You don't look at it in the right way. Supposing that the Athletics should win. You'll be a bigger writer than Shakespeare or Kipling or any of them. If they don't win, why you still have a faster one than Walter Johnson or Bill Donovan or any of them."

Mr. Macbeth continued in this strain. He was talking for his life, and he found the eloquence somehow. After half an hour he persuaded Mr. Mullen to give him a reprieve for the duration of the series. Mr. Mullen went with his head hanging, to face the jeers of the other experts.

Mr. Macbeth only could make his will and hope for the best. The situation was very desperate, indeed.

How Prophets Are Made.

The Athletics won the first game, to the discomfiture of the experts. Mr. George Mullen was just a shade mollified when he entered Mr. Macbeth's study.

"But, Bill," he said, "Ain't there some way to change that thing around—that piece in the paper—so that I won't have the Athletics such a cinch to win?"

"Too late now," said Mr. Macbeth. "In the literary world that simply is not done. You're a game pitcher. Be a game literary guy. Don't let left-handed batters buffalo you or left-handed writers either. If this thing goes through they'll make you a sporting editor."

Mr. Mullen was still gloomy, but the Athletics won the second game and the Cubs seemed to be demoralized. Mr. Mullen was almost smiling when he came to Mr. Macbeth after the game. "I guess I knew something, didn't I, Bill? Did you see the big lines they gave me? That paper appreciates talent."

Strutting His Stuff.

The Athletics won the third game, which was in Chicago. Mr. Mullen did not report to Mr. Macbeth at all. He was strutting up and down the lobby of the hotel with a copy of his paper in his hand showing it to all who cared to behold and many who did not. There was a funeral air about the experts who gathered there, and Mr. Mullen flaunted his prediction in their faces. He was particularly hard on Wild Bill Donovan, who, like all of the experts and baseball players, decided that the Cubs could not but lose.

"I have a lot of offers from magazines," Mr. Macbeth informed him. "And the editor of 'The London Times' wants to know if you will take $100,000 a year to write for him exclusively."

"Tell him no," said Mr. Mullen. "I just done this to show up them baseball writers."

The "Chicago Compromise."

It was in advance of the fourth game of this memorable series that some of the sordidly commercial tendencies that used to exist in the national pastime were emphasized. The rule of world series play is that the athletes do not participate in the profits of the "classic" beyond the first four games. This rule was made so that the athletes might not be tempted to prolong the series unnecessarily.

But a peculiar situation came up in this one. The fourth game was scheduled for Saturday in Chicago. The interest had fled. A certain number of reserved seats has been sold, but the prospects for a full and profitable house were poor. If the series lasted until the next day (Sunday) the game would be packed. There was every prospect that the Athletics would make it four straight and the magnates would be deprived of the profits of the Sunday game.

Then a startling thing happened. The magnates announced that in the event that there was a Sunday game that game would count as one of the games in which the players would share the profits. The Athletics somehow happened to lose the fourth game and the players of Chicago and Philadelphia shared the profits of that Sunday game. It just happened that way.

From that moment a number of faithful followers of the national pastime were convinced that there might be a little of what the boys call sordid commercialism connected with a world series. But that was the lesser evil. The athletic ghost-writing plague still sweeps the land.

World Series Brings War

broken the home run record he would have got his salary and written his own figure. But the Yankees, and the Babe, collapsed and were never in the race.

DAZZY VANCE. Dazzy Vance, who got a $25,000 contract, was a liability. An ailing arm and poor base running put a great deal of the season. He will not have it renewed. It will be a question of whether or not he is willing to accept smaller figures. Babe Herman, one of the leading batters in the league, will not get his demands. He has been quoted as declaring he will ask for $50,000.

Roush's three-year contract at $21,000 per year is up. He will find his contract the target of attacks along with Meusel, Hoyt and Pennock. Not to mention others.

HORNSBY SURE. Rogers Hornsby will probably get what he asks. William Wrigley, the chewing gum magnate, is not at all tight with his finances. If the Cubs win the series Hornsby will get what he wants. It is said to be $50,000 for each of the next three years.

Bottomley and Frisch are expensive Cardinal assets. Sam Breadon will trade them if they demand too much. Breadon rarely has any holdouts. He, along with Barney Dreyfuss, is a leader in the fight to reduce salaries.

Dreyfuss' big piece is Paul Waner. "Big Poison" demanded $18,000 last spring and held out until the training season was practically over. He got a reported $15,000 and had a poor year.

ECHO IN MINORS. The salary war in the majors is likely to have an echo in the minors. At Atlanta Rell J. Spiller traded off his most expensive player—Nick Cullop. Cullop was getting well over $800 per month. He had a poor year and was traded, Spiller and other,

PETRELS DRIVE FOR ENCOUNTER WITH GEORGIA

Robertson Drills Birds on Defense Against Forward Passes.

On the battle-scarred turf of Hermance stadium one finds Harry Robertson driving his forty-odd candidates for varsity positions up and down the field, rounding out eleven men to start against the Georgia Bulldogs in Athens next Saturday afternoon.

Opponents this season will find a team that is well drilled in fundamentals, using one of the most difficult systems in football, the "Chick Meehan" system.

In the first part of the scrimmage they had a rather hard time trying to cope with the deceptive aerial attack that has always made Georgia one of the leaders in football in the south. Hard work on the part of the players and the coaches has enabled them to set up a defense for this air attack that is almost impregnable. In the scrimmage with the freshmen team Monday, the rats were only able to complete two forward passes showing what a point of efficiency they have worked themselves into.

Runaway Horse Gave Girl Sprinter Chance

By Ralph McGill.

Over in Chattanooga, Tenn.-O-See, they have a young lady sprinter who is breaking records so fast she is being considered by the A. A. U. as a contender in the big meets and in the next Olympiad which is to be held out there at Los Angeles.

The young lady is Miss Olive Kruger and she holds the unofficial world's record for the 40, 50 and 60-yard dashes. Last week she won three races from Miss Hazel Evans, a sprinter from Dallas, Texas. That is what interested the A. A. U.

Mr. Phil B. Whitaker, who lawyers over in Chattanooga, Tenn.-O-See, was the first one to break the story about Miss Kruger. That was some time ago before she had run any races. Mr. Whitaker simply knew that Miss Kruger could pick them up and lay them down with considerable speed.

"FINE RUNNING." "When she is running she looks like one of those figures on a Grecian vase," said Mr. Whitaker, holding on to my lapel. It was useless, that holding on. No one is going to walk away from a yarn about someone who looks like something Krats wrote poems about.

"It was a Yankee who discovered how fast she could run," said Mr. Whitaker. "That is the only thing I don't like about it. I'm tired of the Yankees coming down here and discovering things we haven't noticed ourselves."

"Well, anyhow, there were some people visiting out at Lon Harlow's house. Lon lives out on the pike a ways and the young lady is a niece. Bob has a great big place and there was an old saddle horse running around in the big front lawn when the visitors came out on the porch after lunch."

"Someone had left the gate open and she started after him. You know how a horse will act. Well, if you don't I'll tell you that he always tries to outrance anyone who is after him when he knows he's being chased. This horse started running but Olive Kruger was after him. She overhauled him in a short distance, caught him by the mane and led him home."

"That's where the visitors came in. They spoke up in amazement and told Lon Harlow that he had a great sprinter there. They started in experimenting and she beat everyone in Chattanooga. That's when they started bringing in opponents for her."

GOOD RECORDS. The records seem to substantiate Mr. Whitaker's story. In a recent race Miss Kruger stepped the 40 yards in five seconds flat, clipping one-fifth of a second off the record set at Boston two years ago by Miss Rosa Grosse. In the 60-yard dash she won in seven seconds flat, bettering the old record set at Los Angeles in 1926 by two-fifths of a second.

DAY IN FINANCE

By
R. L. BARNUM

New York, September 23.—The new week started with cross currents in the stock market, in the money market, and in the general trade situation and outlook.

Under the leadership of Columbia Gas, United Corporation, Consolidated Gas, United Gas, and Improvement, the market for public utilities fairly boiled. These shares are the ones in which most money has been made in the stock market in the past few years. Many public utility shares are intercompany held. Investment trusts and holding companies are large holders of public utility shares. The investing and speculating public is largely interested in these shares with the result that the floating supply is small and hence the price easily manipulated one way or the other.

While the market for public utility shares was boiling, the market for many other shares, especially the motor group, was soft. Chrysler made a new low or the year. Radio also was heavily sold. The whole market turned heavy on the late trading.

Similar cross currents were found in the money market. Sentiment was helped at the opening of the stock market and money markets by the statement made by President Mitchell, of the National City Bank, before sailing for abroad at the close of last week that there was no need to worry about the credit situation or about brokers' loans. Despite Mitchell's views, however, call money opened firm at 8 percent, the banks here called $30,000,000 to noon, with the rate going to 9 percent and afterwards to 10. All periods of time money were firm at 9.

Mitchell also said that the general business situation and outlook is good. Today the Karsten statistical laboratory of New Haven, which is sponsored by a Professor Irving Fisher, predicted a 10 percent drop in the country's new building contracts let in October followed by a 17 percent drop for November. This prediction attracted wide attention in Wall Street because only a couple of weeks ago, when Babson predicted a stock market crash, Fisher immediately came out with a widely quoted extremely optimistic statement.

In its weekly letter the Harvard Economic Society sees hesitancy in business. It pointed out that recent developments in the building industry, in the automobile industry and in steel have not been favorable, adding some seasonal increase in business is likely to appear in September and Stock and Money Market as Well as General Business Outlook Marked by Cross-Currents as Week Opens.

In October, but the unfavorable factors render it improbable—more clearly came out with a widely quoted, exacting will be of seasonal magnitude.

Anacosta was strong and active. The company's directors meet tomorrow to declare the quarterly dividend. Three times in the past ten months the annual dividend rate has been increased. Starting at $3, in June the rate was advanced from $6 to $7. Some holders of Anacosta are expecting a further increase tomorrow to $8; some are looking for a split-up, two shares for one with $4 dividends for the new stock.

One of the ablest bankers in Wall Street talking with your correspondent today said: "The general situation and outlook does not lend itself to analysis. When many people talk about the general situation they really have their mind on the stock market. All that can be said about the stock market is that it is up to each individual to take it or leave it. Those who are able to think straight and do so are leaving the stock market alone; those who do not think are making money. From my viewpoint sooner or later the market will upset the stock market appreciably. It always has after a long sustained bull stock market, and it always will."

NO PANIC IN LONDON
DESPITE COLLAPSE OF HATRY STOCKS

London, September 23.—(AP)—An air of suppressed excitement permeated the stock exchange this morning over the Hatry collapse but there were no evidences of panic. This was due largely to the action of the stock exchange committee at which it was decided that settlement of differences in the affected stocks would be postponed to a later date.

The time thus allowed will enable the necessary financial arrangements to be made and to allow the settlement in other stocks now in progress to be negotiated more easily, although there will be some big differences to be met.

The market opened subdued with a shade lower markings in most departments. Thus far the Hatry difficulty has caused one suspension of the Liverpool Stock Exchange.

SUGAR

Stockholders in sugar producing companies may look forward to rather discouraging results in the annual reports of their companies, which will be pushed in the next few months.

Most sugar companies close their books September 30, and the statements are usually published early in November.

There has been continuous increase in the world's production of sugar, cane and beet. The causes leading to the abnormal stimulation of output are varied.

European beet producers have been encouraged by government subsidies. The development, principally in Java, of superior varieties of cane has resulted in larger yields, which made sugar growing profitable there in recent years and led to expanded output. There has also been continued stimulation of production in the United States island possessions due to our relatively large tariff.

The result of all this increased output has been an almost continuous decline in the price of raw sugar for a period of about two and one-half years.

Cuban and Porto Rican sugar producers market the larger part of their crop the first six months of the year. A comparison of the average price of Cuban raws in the first half of this year as compared with the first half of 1928 shows that receipts of producers must have been about 6 of a cent less per pound this year. This affords a good clue to probable operating results, which cannot be very encouraging, even for Porto Rican producers who benefit enormously by the tariff.

It often happens, however, that when bad news like this comes out prices of related securities have already discounted the worst. Such a time is often favorable for investing. It is possible that this may happen with the stocks of sugar producers this year, particularly those favored by our tariff.

The immediate outlook for sugar prices is uncertain, but it seems likely that the average price realized next season will be no worse than this year and probably better. Sooner or later abnormal conditions like those of the present lead to restriction of output and better earnings for producers for a few years thereafter.
